WANTS PEACE DEFINITELY DECIDED

Roosevelt Is Anxious That The Envoys Sign The Documents At Once--Russian Papers Criticise The Terms.

JAPAN'S EYE ON FUTURE.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—The following statement of the Japanese argument which governed the decision to waive the question of indemnity can be accepted as authoritative: Japan realized fully she was making a sacrifice for peace, but she was looking to the future. It was not a question of whether the war could be successfully continued, but of whether peace was not now more advantageous to Japan. Japan had already gained all she fought for. It was only the "spoils of war" that remained, and having achieved the real objects of the war she could afford to forego the spoils rather than be placed in the position of fighting for money. While Japan believed she was entitled to the spoils she felt that her position was so strong, her successes so complete, that she could yield without detracting from the force of her victory.

caused by the tardiness of advances from the capitalists, but the fact that the postponement came at a time when every energy was expected to have been bent toward the completion is regarded as significant. It is not believed all the work on the treaty has been suspended and in view of the message sent the President from the Czar it is taken as an indication St. Petersburg will accept the result of Witte's efforts. Rockefeller's Dispatch. Orster Bay, Aug. 31.—John D. Rockefeller telegraphed President Roosevelt: "Please accept my hearty congratulations on your successful efforts for peace." Frank Joseph, Fairbanks and others in this country and others continue to send praise. Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—The drafting of the treaty of Portsmouth is proceeding slowly. Mr. Martens, assisted by Plancon and Pokotiloff, the latter Russian Minister to China, and Henry W. Denison, the American adviser of the Japanese foreign office, assisted by Adachi Genshi.

Under the agreement of the first day of the conference the treaty will be in French and English and the French text will be the official text. The plan of work is for the treaty makers to make rough drafts of their ideas of what the various clauses should contain.

After the agreement of Martens and Denison compare drafts, make changes, and pound the penology into such shape that it is acceptable to both nations. The work is of the utmost importance. This treaty will be the law on which the relations of Russia and Japan will stand in the far east and the position of each comma is important.

Japanese Move Cautiously. The Japanese are very painstaking. They work slowly. They scrutinize every word and every punctuation mark. They intend to leave no loopholes.

The clause in the treaty relating to the commercial relations of the two countries in all territory affected by the treaty and establishing the most favored nation idea will be but temporary. It is the intention of Russia and Japan to follow this treaty with a commercial treaty to be drafted later, in which these commercial relations will be fixed in more minute detail than is possible in the peace treaty.

Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador to this country, made a very significant statement along these lines. He said that it is the intention of Russia, now that there is to be peace, to cultivate the closest relations with Japan. In the hope of eventually taking the place of England in a Japanese combination.

Scheme Close to Russia's Heart. That is the reason so much care is to be bestowed upon the commercial features of the treaties to be made. This is Russia's idea, not Japan's. Perhaps, but the Russians are not very much at heart.

So far as the evacuation of Manchuria is concerned, the treaty will merely recognize and establish the principle. The time of the evacuation will be set by the generals in the field. Nothing has been heard from St. Petersburg or Tokio yet as to the armistice, but that is not strange, as the armistice, when it is declared, will be arranged by the belligerent governments. Indeed, there has been a virtual armistice since the negotiations began.

Mr. Sato said that the treaty would be signed in Portsmouth. There is much anxiety among the Portsmouth people lest the envoys would go to Washington or Orster Bay to sign. The Portsmouth people want the peace treaty to be called the treaty of Portsmouth. There is a plan to have the signing in the historical warworth house here, or in the old colonial dining-room of the Rockingham hotel.

President Will Decide. It is quite likely that the treaty will be signed wherever the president wants it to be signed. Portsmouth people are planning to ask the president to come here to witness the signing.

A very anomalous situation exists as to the impression created by the conclusion of peace. While the outside world applauds, in Japan there is certainly great disappointment in the terms, and in Russia, where it would seem that there should be universal rejoicing over the great diplomatic victory of M. Witte has won, the government seems to have received it coolly.

With the people it will make M.

CHAMPAGNE AND NOT MAPLE SYRUP USED

Battleship Vermont, Named After Dry State, Launched at Quincy, Massachusetts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Quincy, Mass., August 31.—The Battleship Vermont was launched here today, by having a bottle of champagne broken over the keel by Miss Jennie Bell, daughter of Governor Bell. Much pleasantry has appeared in the papers and among the people, over what should be used for the launching. Maple syrup has been suggested by several editors as Vermont's most typical product, while others said a bottle of hard cider would be the most fitting for a battleship named for a rural state. The Vermont is a truly beautiful battleship, being of 16,000 horse power, and carrying 16,000 tons, making 18 knots per hour in her trial speed, and cost Uncle Sam the sum of $4,179,000.

ASBURY PARK HAS GRAND BABY SHOW

More Than Five Hundred Children of the Elite Compete for the Exquisite Prizes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Asbury Park, N. J., August 31.—The Asbury Park, the grandest affair of the season children place here today. Over 500 children have been entered for the carnival and a handsome prize has been awarded to the various divisions. The souvenir to be presented by the general committee will be a silver pin plated with gold in the center of which is a baby floating in the water, with a sunburst as the background. The words, "Asbury Park Baby Parade, 1905" surround it. Some of the other prizes include cups valued at $100 each. One of the first children entered was little Miss Ruth Welch, of New York, who is an expert Fancy dancer.

Shares in Germany.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Berlin, August 31.—It was learned here that negotiations have been practically completed for the listing of Pennsylvania securities on several German stock exchanges. Word was received in this city that this effect will shortly take place. Among those who have been instrumental in securing a market in Germany for Pennsylvania securities is Kuhn, Loeb and Co., bankers of New York.

SWITZERLAND-SPAIN COMMERCIAL TREATY

Agreement Lapsed Today—Might Mean a European Tariff War.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madrid, August 31.—The existing commercial treaty between Spain and Switzerland lapses today, and unless some means are effected a tariff war may result which may seriously affect not only the trade of the two countries named, but also Spain's trade relations with other nations with which she has commercial treaties based on the "most favored-nation" clause, the Swiss treaty being responsible for many articles being now appraised at a lower rate of duty than that provided for in the second and lower scale of the present tariff, which will become operative the moment the Swiss treaty terminates. It is reported, says Consul-General Ridgely, that negotiations are in progress for prolonging the duration of the present treaty pending the proposed revision of the existing tariff and it is hoped that this will be done, for not only would it be impossible to draw up a new treaty in such a short time, but a very strong feeling prevails here against making any new commercial treaties until the tariff now in force be brought more into line with the present needs of Spanish trade. In order to ascertain in the views of merchants and manufacturers the government some time back issued a circular to the various chambers of commerce and other trade organizations calling for expressions of opinion regarding the revision of the tariff. Naturally the conflicting interests of the agriculturists and manufacturers will give rise to a long discussion before any alternation can be made.

Dead of these cases to have had their origin here.

Two Doctors Have Hard Task. Dr. C. M. Shanley of North Dakota and Dr. W. M. Richard of this city have left for Barataria to stamp out the fever. They will have charge of a forty-mile strip, and their task will perhaps be more difficult than that of any of the fever fighters except the two who are at Lakeview. Nurses and provisions were taken along.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 31.—Health officials here have been accused by Gov. Vardaman of Mississippi of being responsible, through bad faith, for the entrance of yellow fever into Gulfport, Miss. He declares the cases there, went from Mississippi City, and reached that place from New Orleans before the quarantine was put on. The governor declares the New Orleans officials concealed the fever and failed to inform the Mississippi officials of its existence.

A controversy of large proportions is expected to follow the governor's charges in the attempt to discover who is culpable. The cases at Vicksburg and Natchez also will come under the microscope.

Ex-Mayor, Minus Permit, Arrested. Cairo, Ill., Aug. 31.—N. B. Thistlewood, formerly mayor of Cairo for three terms, was arrested and later released, for entering Cairo without a health department permit. Cairo Thistlewood is in business in Cairo and lives at Memphis, coming here each morning. He had been offered a permit, but refused it, saying that no one had a right to prevent his entering without one, regardless of the yellow fever quarantine.

JANESVILLE MAN IS MARRIED WEDNESDAY

Mr. Lee Beers Weds a Green Bay Young Lady in That City Yesterday Afternoon.

The Green Bay Gazette prints the following account of the marriage of Mr. L. B. Beers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beers of this city, to Miss Duncan of Green Bay. The ceremony occurred yesterday: "The wedding of Miss Mina Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Duncan, and Lee Elbert Beers of Janesville took place at 12 o'clock today at the home of the bride's parents, 515 West Walnut street, Rev. Granger W. Smith of Ripon officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Duncan, as maid of honor and Miss Daisy Dunlap and Miss Bertha Hansen as bridesmaids, while the groom had his brother, Clarence Beers as best man. The bride was given away by her father. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Pearl Burton and Miss Burton also played the Flower song by Gustave Lange during the ceremony. Little Leslie and Lucian Fawell, cousins of the bride, were the ribbon carriers. The bridal couple stood under a wedding bed of white flowers in the parlor. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by the Association of College in Janesville, Tenn. Nov. 23-25. A full attendance is expected and an interesting program is being arranged.

The next meeting of the Southern Educational association is to be held jointly with the Association of College in Nashville, Tenn. Nov. 23-25. A full attendance is expected and an interesting program is being arranged. Charles E. Shively, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, has called a meeting of the supreme body to determine whether the biennial conference and encampment shall be held at New Orleans next year as decided at the Louisville, Ky., meeting. The proposal is due to the yellow fever epidemic. New Orleans knights are insisting on a speedy decision.

Mrs. Gertrude Bentley, wife of former City Detective William Bentley of Lincoln, Neb., committed suicide at her home by taking chloroform. Her action was deliberate seemingly, as she telephoned her husband concerning the disposition of her effects. He reached home with a doctor too late to save her. Fear of lingering illness and death from consumption is the cause assigned for her act. Mrs. Bentley was a niece of ex-Governor Durbin of Indiana.

PANAMA MERCHANTS REGISTER PROTEST

Object Stoutly to Establishment of Commissary Stores Along the Canal Zone.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Panama, Aug. 31.—A meeting of Panama merchants was held here recently, and the committee was appointed to make a vigorous protest to President Magoon and Governor Magoon against the establishment of commissary stores at several points in the Canal Zone. Governor Magoon declares that the question of supply on credit makes the commissary stores an absolute necessity. Employees may draw coupon books equal to forty per cent of their balance on their pay roll. Under the railroad and former manager of the Canal Commission the commissariat earned big profits, and additional branches will not afford cheaper food or supplies to the employees. Local merchants can sell more cheaply than the commissary stores, but the credit system adopted by the commission practically shuts out competition for the trade with the canal employees.

MRS. TAGGART SAYS MINER JOLLIED HER

At His Dinner He Complimented Her on Her Beauty and Great Wit.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.] Wooster, Aug. 31.—When cross-examined, Mrs. Taggart this morning said the extravagant compliments paid to her by General Miner at his dinner party made her blush. She said: "The general's compliments were on my personal appearance, beauty and my gown and were only for jollying me, and I could not help being embarrassed. On the way home the captain said, 'My, but Miner must have shot a lot of hot air into you.' My husband was more of a 'jollier' than Miner." She again denied she had smoked cigarettes, although Lieut. Fortescue has previously testified he saw her smoke.

MAY CIRCULATE FREE MAGAZINES

PUBLIC LIBRARY MAY GIVE OUT
PERIODICALS AS BOOKS.

BOARD WILL PASS ON PLAN

Many New Books on Shelves—Reval of Reading Anticipated—
A New Apprentice.

Possibly before November first current magazines of prominence will be circulated from the Janesville Public Library to its patrons as books are now given out. The periodicals would be bound in covers made particularly for such a purpose and would be allowed to leave the institution only on a card for a limited space of time. This system has been tried in other cities and found very successful, being satisfactory to those in charge and greatly appreciated by those benefited.

Board to Discuss.
The plan will be laid before the Library Board at the meeting early in September, to be discussed and passed upon. If the idea meets with approval, as it is thought it will, the system will be instituted as soon as possible. At first but one copy of each magazine will be at the disposal of the public but this number will be increased shortly if results make it advisable. The circulation of periodicals would by no means do away with the reading room and the current copies of this department would not be taken from the tables.

More Books Drawn.
With the coming arrival of autumn, the commencement of the new school year on Tuesday and resumption of club work among the women before October first, an increase in the number of books drawn is looked for by the librarians. When cool weather comes on and people are compelled to keep indoors more reading naturally is indulged in. A sudden enlargement in the circulation from the children's room is anticipated for next week and the following few days for early after the re-opening of the schools the pupils will all be given lists of books to read, and this "out-side" study is usually entered upon with zest. To assist in the children's room a new apprentice will soon be added to the library corps, Miss Leah Howe, having decided to take the position.

Many New Volumes.
During the summer between three and four hundred dollars worth of new books have been added to the library and are now upon the shelves. Among those which have recently been prepared for circulation and are now being drawn are eighty-three, the names of which are in the appended list:

...LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men.

Railway Melange.
New York, August 31.—Although work is being rushed as fast as possible, it will be fully a year before the $3,000,000 improvements on the Cairo division of the Big four are completed. Hills are being absolutely taken away and the grade on the road reduced from 1/2 to 3/4 per cent. This means the cutting down of the grades from 65 feet to the mile to 16 feet or in other words, the elimination of 49 feet of grade each mile. After this is accomplished, the company can with the locomotives that now draw a train load of 1,200 tons, draw 3,000 tons.

Owing to the pending injunction proceedings instituted by the Southern Pacific, the Louisiana Railroad Commission is not able to make its order on rate rates effective accordingly the new crop will be hauled before the case is disposed of. It is expected, the matter is fought through all the courts, it is uncertain when a final decision will be reached. Should the courts finally uphold the tariff of the railroad commission and declare it to be just and equitable, no rebate to the shippers from the date that the commission ordered it to go into effect is possible.

The Big Four expects to have its extension from Danville to Indiana Harbor, by which it will get into Chicago over its own tracks, completed by January first, next. From Indiana Harbor Big Four tracks will enter Chicago over the Lake Shore tracks.

Pittsburg roads expect the ore tonnage record will be broken this year. About 20,000,000 tons are expected to be delivered at Lake Erie ports and thence by rail to the furnaces of the United States Steel Corporation.

All the material contracted for will not be shipped over the same line for Japan. About half of the material will be shipped over the Great Northern Railroad to Seattle and the rest will be taken over the Northern Pacific to Tacoma. From these Pacific Coast ports James J. Hill's steamships run weekly to Japan, and the plant will be transported to the Island Empire by these. Yokohama is the Japanese port to which the material is consigned. As soon as the plant is well on its way across the Pacific, a great fleet of transports will assemble in Yokohama Bay. A army of dock laborers will be ready to handle the units of the plant and as quickly as it can be transferred from the Pacific steams to the transports, it will be rushed to its destination in Korea, and the line will be extended across the Yalu into the land of contention, Manchuria, with all possible speed.

The New York Central has just completed the telephone line in connection with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie into Pittsburg from Youngstown. The Lake Shore has had the service on all its lines for about six months.

The Oregon navigation announces the joint tariff now in effect on popcorn. The new rate is $1.00 per hundredweight from Chicago, Missouri, and Mississippi River points as against $1.50 from the river points, and $1.75 from Chicago, the former tariff.

The Great Northern announces an adjustment of rates on stock that materially benefits Republic, Wash, and district. A considerable sheep grazing industry has developed in the Republic district, but rates have not been quite what the sheepmen desired.

OYSTER SEASON WILL BEGIN ON TOMORROW

Letter R in September Plays Important Part in Bivalves' Existence.

With the reappearance of the letter "R" in the name of the month, tomorrow, oysters will come into the market once more and in anticipation of a trade in this favorite food, some of the local dealers have laid in a supply of the bivalves. Although Sept. 1 marks the formal opening of the season, oysters do not become a staple commodity on the market until the middle of October, when it is possible to handle them without loss from warm weather.

Early shipments of oysters come to Janesville and other cities of the west either in the shell or packed in sealed cans. The bulk product is not sent out until the weather becomes cooler, as they are exceedingly sensitive and spoil quickly, unless heavily iced. "We will have oysters for sale on Sept. 1 and in fact we have them today and have been handling them for a week or more," asserted one local dealer.

"But we do not expect to stock up with them for at least six weeks. By that time they can be handled with little expense and delivered to the consumer with practically all of the delicate flavor they contained at the time they were brought out of the water. "Just now we are confining our attention to the genuine Rockaways, for the reason that they are the hardest of the lot. By exercising a little care, packing them with the deep shell down, iced them frequently and feeding them occasionally, they may be kept alive out of water for many days. Back east I can remember when some of the old farmers used to get barrels of them at a time. They would pack them away in the cellar, with the flat shell up and at intervals they would pour salt water over them, following it up by sprinkling them over with a corn meal batter. The oysters would open their shells and feed on this mixture, which would keep them alive for a long time.

"Practically all of the oysters we get here come from Baltimore and they are forty-eight hours in transit. In the shell or in cans they come all right, but I am somewhat prejudiced against the bivalves in bulk. They have to be iced several times on the way and the men who do the work are not any too particular about it. Then there is another objection. The man who first opens the shell waters them, the wholesaler puts in some more and finally the retailer dumps in a few ladlefuls, with the result that they are pretty much all water by the time they get to the consumer. They are sold on such close margins, sometimes, that about all the retailer can get out of them is the portion of water which he puts into them. "Oysters are not plentiful now and they will not be until later in the season, when the law will permit dredging for them. This is the most expensive method of securing the mollusks and at the same time, much larger catches may be made. Wind and weather have considerable to do with the success of the oyster fisherman. Just now I am retailing the Rockaways at 20 cents a dozen and it gives me a fair margin of profit, even with the loss out. Those oysters will sell for from 40 to 50 cents a can at the beginning of the season and later they will become cheaper."

BRYAN'S TELEGRAM DATED JANESVILLE

Congratulated President Roosevelt on the Successful Outcome of the Peace Conference.

It has often been remarked before that by a continuous procession of coincidences whose continuity seems never to be broken, Janesville is always somewhere on the chess-board when the great events on which the eyes of the nation—sometimes the world—are focused, are transpiring. This is no wild vagary of local pride but a real phenomenon, of no significance perhaps, but interesting nevertheless. Frequently this city is a most important pawn in the game, often it is really in the game, occasionally it is mentioned while the game is going on. But in some cases of another city's name or some of its citizens come to be mentioned "among those present." It has happened so invariably that it has come to be expected.

Lately the peace conference has riveted the attention of the whole civilized world. Unconsciously certain local people who have watched these things anticipated that in one way or another Janesville would be "in at the finish." But when the big incident was about closed and nothing had happened to identify Janesville therewith, it began to look as if the exception which was going to prove the rule had happened. Then, by the merest chance, William J. Bryan, one of the great figures in present day history, came to town. He had cut short a lecture at Rockford Tuesday afternoon to make connections with the train which would take him to Ft. Atkinson for his evening address. On his way to the Rockford depot newspaper men informed him that peace had been declared. At the close of his address at Ft. Atkinson he took a carriage and was driven to this city, where, after a few hours' rest, he was to catch the morning train for Chicago. Before retiring he wrote a dispatch to President Roosevelt, leaving instructions that it should be sent as soon as the telegraph office should open. This was the dispatch:

"Janesville, Wis., Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt: Accept congratulations. Your successful efforts to secure peace between Russia and Japan reflect credit on the nation.

"WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

The big fact of course is the dispatch. It appears in the papers all over the world today in company with the messages from Emperor William, King Edward, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and other great potentates, and dignitaries of the world. Undeniably a trivial matter. Perhaps the dispatch itself is not so important, except that it shows that the great democratic leader magnanimously expresses his approval of the course of the Great Republican, thereby making the approval unanimous.

Col. Bryan is shortly to start upon a trip around the world. He told an interviewer at Rockford that he had given eighty Chautauqua addresses, this season and received for them an average of $250. This money will be used to defray the expenses of the trip and next year he hopes to give a new lecture based on his travels.

MADISON PHYSICIAN HAD BIG STOLEN IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

Local Police Department Requested to Be on Lookout Late Yesterday Afternoon.

Notification was received by the local police department from Madison yesterday to the effect that a horse belonging to Max Sommers and a buggy owned by Dr. J. C. Sommers which had been left in front of the latter's office on East Millin street, were stolen sometime before 3:30 in the afternoon. The doctor's horse being sick, he had borrowed the one owned by his brother. He did not miss the rig until he left his office to make some calls.

HICKS PREDICTS AN EARLY FROST

COOL SPELL COMING IN FIRST PART OF SEPTEMBER.

USUAL NUMBER OF STORMS

Autumn Will Be Ushered in Toward the Last of the Next Thirty Days.

Probably a frost early in September and some severe weather conditions during the month are prognosticated by the Reverend Doctor I. Hicks, who foretells heat and cold, storms and pleasant periods by the positions that various planets and the moon will occupy in relation to the earth. His predictions for September are in part as follows:

Hot to Very Cool.
The first storm period, reactionary, is central on the third and fourth, but the presence of the Mercury, Venus and Earth perturbations, with the Moon on the equator and in perigee on the first, indicate that disturbances will continue from the last August period, quite up to this first September period. The storm condition the third and fourth, and motions will greatly increase, and more rain and thunder storms will visit the wide areas of the country. The Venus characteristics will strongly appear at this and all storm periods during the greater part of September. These characteristics are, first, very warm, low barometer and vicious lightning and thunder, followed suddenly by westerly gales, rising barometer and change to very cool. A Venus equinox added to Earth's equinox thus early is almost sure to bring early flashes of very cool weather, with frosts over the greater portions of the northern central states. Watch for the marked and sudden changes to very cool immediately behind great warmth and thunder storms.

Seismic Troubles.
Extending from the seventh to the eleventh and central on the ninth is the second storm period which is of a reactionary nature. At this time the regular Vulcan equinox is intensified by the united equinoxes of both Venus and Earth, the Moon being at extreme declination south. On and about the eleventh of September each year, the Earth's equator is nearer the plane of the Sun's north pole, always producing a sensible crisis in the magnetic and electrical state of the earth and atmosphere. Seismic and volcanic disturbances are always stimulated as the Earth is passing its annual crisis. Low barometer, storms and seismic disturbances will be due on and touching the ninth, tenth and eleventh. More or less such phenomena are almost certain to appear at this time, and yet it is quite possible that such disturbances will be retarded or prolonged, reaching a culminating crisis in the storm period immediately following.

A Decided Crisis.
On and touching the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth falls the third storm period, which is reactionary. The full force of Earth's annual equinox bears upon it, the Venus equinox is still in active force and the Moon is at full and on the celestial equator. As before mentioned, a decided crisis will be reached within forty-eight hours of Wednesday, the thirteenth. The barometer will indicate a possible violence and danger in the western section and on the Gulf coasts, by six o'clock on the evening of the thirteenth, and heavy storms of rain and thunder will visit the interior generally on the fourteenth and fifteenth. Very high tides, with West India hurricanes more than probable, will work up from the south and reach the southern waters and coasts of this country at or near this period. Earthquake and similar phenomena will be felt in many extremes of the globe not far from the thirteenth. High barometer and decided change to cooler will follow this period, bringing cold and frosty nights several succeeding days.

Severe Perturbations.
Central on the twenty-first and reaching from the nineteenth to the twenty-third is the fourth, a regular, storm period. The Venus influence will extend into this period, the Earth's annual equinox being central with the Vulcan period on the twenty-first. The Moon is also at last quarter on the twenty-first and at extreme north declination on the twenty-second. As we reach, and enter this period it will grow very warm. About the twentieth to twenty-first the barometer will fall rapidly in western parts, and storms of rain, wind and thunder will pass eastwardly over the country on the twenty-first, twenty-second and twenty-third. Equinoctial storms will come up from the south at this time, and counter storms will meet them out of the northwest, making a period of general and severe perturbations, but not bringing the decided, autumnal changes to be expected the last few days of the month.

Period of Danger.
The fifth storm period, reactionary, is on the twenty-seventh, twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth. The Moon being new, on the equator and in perigee, so near the autumnal equinox, makes this period one of danger, especially on the Gulf and Atlantic. Tidal waves, West India and severe inland storms and earthquakes are probable the last of September.

DIVORCED BROADHEAD COUPLE RE-MARRIED AT ROCKFORD

Wesley Wolshouse, aged 48, and Mrs. Lillian Wolshouse, aged 46, both of Broadhead, went to Rockford for the express purpose of having the knot tied which they both were anxious to have untied several years ago. The happy couple appeared before the justice and explained the situation. The groom wore one of those smiles that won't come off and the bride was blushing like a school girl. The ceremony over the bride and groom departed on the second honeymoon, a vow that never again should any trouble mar the happiness of their wedded lives.

CAUGHT BIG FISH ON HER VACATION TRIP

Mrs. Barney Eldred Proves to Be a Successful Angler After Big Game Fish.

Mrs. Barney Eldred, who is taking her summer outing on the shore of the beautiful Kawaquesau lake in northern Wisconsin, caught a large muskallonge, which weighed over fifteen pounds. The fish fought desperately and drew the boat nearly one hundred feet before Mrs. Eldred succeeded in landing it. She was fishing in Tomahawk lake in a boat manned by Archie Reid and Fred Welch, who were taking their outing at the same lake. It took the combined efforts of the three before the fish was killed. Mrs. Eldred feels quite elated at her success, this being the second muskallonge that she has caught during the summer.

OPEN HUNTING TIME BEGINS ON FRIDAY

Some Provisions of the Game Laws Which It Will Be Well to Remember.

Tomorrow, Sept. 1, the open season for hunting all kinds of game, except deer, begins. Protection is given to all kinds of wild birds, except game birds (wild geese, ducks, woodcock, snipe, plovers, grouse, prairie chickens, partridges). The only birds which are not protected are the house sparrow, American crow, the hawk and black-birds. Prairie chickens are protected in Wisconsin, except in Adams, Barron, Burnett, Bayfield, Buffalo, Clark, Crawford, Douglas, Dunn, Eau Claire, Jackson, Juneau, Marquette, Monroe, Pepin, Polk, Portage, Richland, Sawyer, Vernon, Washburn, Wausau and Wood counties. In said counties they can be killed from Sept. 1 to Oct. 15. It is unlawful to kill or have in possession, or to transport during any one day more than fifteen prairie chickens, grouse of any variety, or woodcock; more than twenty-five partridges or more than thirty wild geese, wild duck or aquatic fowl, or snipe. A resident possessing a hunting license may carry with him as baggage or express, or in his personal possession, the full limit of any one kind of game birds above mentioned, or a mixed bag containing not more than fifty of the game birds herein enumerated, the bag not to contain more than the limit fixed herein for any one kind of said game birds. That is, not more than fifteen prairie chickens, or twenty-five partridges or thirty aquatic birds. Hunting with aquatic fowl between sunset and the following sunrise, or shooting from a boat on the open water, is prohibited. No game can be shipped or sold, and must be marked if transported by the owner.

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF.

They Are Each Caused by a Pestiferous Germ.

Ring worm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair, and says its vitality, causing falling hair, and, finally, baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft by leading drugists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OUR SYSTEM OF BOOKKEEPING.

Some people consider that the bookkeeping taught in ALL business colleges is alike—superficial and of no practical value in the business office. While this opinion may be true in some cases, and especially in low-grade business colleges who employ cheap, inexperienced teachers, we wish it distinctly understood that the System of Bookkeeping and Accounting taught in the SOUTHERN WISCONSIN BUSINESS COLLEGE, does not belong to this superficial and impractical kind. This subject is who has had practical experience as an auditor of Banks and Mercantile concerns, has adjusted deranged books, and installed new systems of accounting suitable to the particular business.

OUR GRADUATES ARE BOOKKEEPERS.

They are holding some of the best positions in some of the best firms of the country. They have been able to install systems of accounting suitable to the business in which they are employed. There is no class of modern bookkeeping with which our graduates are not familiar.

We Do Not Confine Our Teaching to Any One Book or System.

OUR SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND

is equally up-to-date. Ask employers in our city and elsewhere how our graduate stenographers acquit themselves. WE MEET THE DEMAND OF THE BUSINESS WORLD because the work is TAUGHT BY A PRACTICAL TEACHER AND SHORTHAND WRITER.

Now is the Time to Begin. Day and Evening Sessions

Students may select such subjects as they desire to take.

Students, business men and all who are interested in thorough, up-to-date business training, are specially invited to call and investigate our methods and systems thoroughly.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH.

This is the best time to enter.

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, August 31, 1865.—Oats and potatoes are coming into the market very freely. The potatoes are mostly of the Shaw variety and seem to be very fair and large.

Personal.—Dr. Lane, surgeon of the Third Wisconsin Cavalry, reached his home in this city last night. After four years of honorable service has been honorably discharged. He informs us that the detachments of the Third are now assembling at Leavenworth.

A Note From the First Settler of Janesville.—This morning we took from the office a letter bearing the post mark of California, and upon opening it found the following note from Mr. H. F. Jones, the gentleman after whom this city was named. He enclosed a photograph of himself and wife, which may be seen at our office.

Editors Janesville Gazette: Dear Sirs.—Feeling a strong desire to hear how matters and things generally are prospering in and around the city that bears my humble name, I have concluded to subscribe for the Gazette, and enclose a five dollar greenback for which I wish you to send the Gazette as long as it will pay for it. Thinking that many citizens of Janesville might want to know what the first settlers look like, I enclose you my wife's and my own photographs. We built and occupied the first log cabin that ever graced the city of Janesville.

Common Council.—An adjourned meeting of the Common Council was held last evening. His Honor the Mayor presiding. Aldermen: Bates, Conrad, Eldred, Jackson, Jackman and MacDougall being present. Mr. Tallman laid before the Council the action of the Normal School meeting.

Alderman Bates introduced an order authorizing the Mayor to tender to the Normal School Regents the sum of $10,000 in money or a city building worth $15,000.

Alderman Eldred moved to amend the motion of Alderman Bates by substituting the report of the citizens committee. Ayes—Eldred, Jackson, MacDougall. Noes—Bates, Conrad, Jackman. The Mayor gave the casting vote in the negative.

Alderman Bates' order was then adopted. An order was then passed appointing Mr. N. H. Comstock School Commissioner in the 11th ward in place of Dr. Pendleton.

At a caucus held in the town of Rock on the 30th, in pursuance to a notice given, the meeting was called to order by the appointment of W. H. Tripp, Chairman, M. L. Richardson Secretary. On motion, which was carried, Byron Spears and James Church were appointed tellers. A motion was made to proceed to a ballot for three delegates to attend the Assembly convention on the 2nd of September at Orono, for the purpose of electing two delegates to represent the Sixth Assembly District in the State Convention at Madison, on the 6th of September next. Wm. H. Tripp, James Church and E. A. Hovey were elected by ballot as delegates.

A motion was made to elect two delegates to represent the town in the Senatorial Convention to be held at Janesville on the 1st of September. N. W. Tripp and J. G. Hayner were elected delegates.

W. H. Tripp, Chairman. M. L. Richardson, Sec'y. Rock, August 30, 1865.

COMING Attractions . . .

The management of "The Forbidden Land," the Tibetan comic opera of which so much has been heard, is particularly strenuous in its appeal to theatregoers, not to confound it with the numerous musical comedy entertainments, which have been monopolizing the light opera field under the guise of genuine musical entertainments. "The Forbidden Land" is genuine comic opera, with a dignity befitting that distinction, and with an appearance as straightforward as the claims of its management. There is an excellent cast headed by Edward Currie; a costly scenic and costume equipment, and a chorus both in numbers, appearance and capability in keeping with the rest of the entertainment. The engagement here takes place at the Myers Grand Monday, Sept. 4, matinee and night.

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS.

"Wash." Hoskins has a 13,000-acre ranch at San Angelo, Texas, and he tells you how to invest in Texas lands at $2 per acre for grazing lands and $3 per acre for farming lands, payable $1 cash, $2 40 years' time at 3 per cent payable to the state of Texas. Grazing lands are payable 50 cents in cash per acre and $1.50 per acre, 40 years' time at 3 per cent payable to the state. He also tells you how to secure good 5, 10 and 15 year notes secured by land drawing at 8 and 10 per cent interest, paid annually. Wm. B. Curtis, the famous Record-Herald correspondent, writing recently of "San Angelo, Texas" says: "There are still several very large ranches in this vicinity, blocks of 50,000, 80,000 and even 100,000 acres belonging to the same owners, who bought them years ago from the state for 50 cents and $1 an acre on forty years' time, and are now selling the land in small lots for ten times its original value."

“Great men are too often unknown—or, what’s worse, mis-known.” A great story is not so apt to be known as “mis-known.” It takes a lot of advertising space to keep a big store properly posted before the public camera.

JAPAN’S TRADE.

The remarkable growth of Japanese foreign commerce during the first six months of this year, especially of imports from foreign countries, is shown in the June Monthly Return of the Foreign Trade of the Empire of Japan, a copy of which official publication has just reached the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics.

As compared with the six months’ figures for the previous year, the imports show the remarkable increase of 56.9 per cent, from $50,952,000 to $142,550,000, while exports for the same period show a relatively insignificant growth of less than 4 per cent, from $68,453,000 to $71,098,000.

It is of interest to note that, while the largest increases in imports are credited to the United States, the United Kingdom, and British India, the largest increases in exports occur under the head of China, United States and Korea. Thus imports from the United States for the first six months of the year 1905 were $31,921,000, as against $13,328,000 during the same period of 1904; imports from the United Kingdom were $32,023,000, as against $16,932,000; imports from British India were $34,034,000, as against $21,092,000; while imports from Germany are stated as $10,794,000 for the first six months of this year, as against $6,955,000 for the same period of the year 1904.

The exports during the same periods were largest for China, which is credited with $21,932,000, as compared with $14,953,000 during the first six months of 1904. The United States ranks next among the countries to which Japanese products are destined, the figures for the first six months of 1905 being $30,204,000, as against $19,910,000 for the previous year.

In the third place now stands Korea, with $5,853,000 as against $2,840,000 for the same period of 1904. The exports to the other countries are relatively small and, moreover, show decreases. Thus, exports to France, one of Japan’s large customers of silk, have fallen from $7,117,900 during the first six months of 1904 to $5,401,000 during the first six months of 1905.

The leading position of the United States in Japanese foreign commerce is seen from the fact that this country furnished 22.4 per cent of the total imports during the first six months of 1905 as compared with 14.7 per cent of the total imports during the same period of 1904, and is credited with 28.6 per cent of the total domestic exports during the first half year in 1905 as compared with 29.1 per cent of the total domestic exports of Japan for the first six months in 1904.

The gains in imports affect not only such articles increased consumption of which was to be expected because of the war, such as flour, beans and peas, woollens and worsteds, cotton manufactures, blankets, sole leather, etc., but other articles as well, increased importations of which are the best sign of industrial growth and expansion. Among the latter, the most notable increases are shown by raw cotton, the imports of which have almost doubled in value, by manufactures of iron and steel, machinery, etc.

The only article of importance the imports of which show decreases during the first six months of 1905, as compared with the same period in 1904, are coal, sugar, and kerosene oil. The decrease in the importation of sugar is most striking, and is probably due chiefly to the higher import duties on sugar imposed last year, the results of which are seen in extraordinary heavy importations during the year 1904.

The largest two items of importation appear to be raw cotton, about one-third of which is credited to the United States, and rice, the importations of which assumed large proportions for the first time in 1905, and continue to lead all other items, with the exception of raw cotton. About 88 per cent of the total imports of $142,550,000 during the first half of the present year is represented by the imports of the two items just named.

Exports from Japan, as stated before, show but a slight increase during the current year. Of the principal articles of export raw silk has held its own, while the manufactures of silk show decreased exportations. Exports of both cotton yarn and cotton manufactures show larger figures for the first six months of the current year than for the same period of the year before. The same is true of copper, matches, mats and matting, porcelain and earthenware, and many other smaller items of Japanese produce and manufacture, too numerous to be stated specifically. The largest relative increase is shown by the exports of beer and sake (rice whiskey), which have increased about 178 and 264 per cent respectively, during the present year.

Decreases of exports for the first six months of the current year appear under the head of coal, tea, rice, camellia, straw plait, cigarettes, sulphur, etc.

DECLINE OF THE SENATE.

The announcement from Washington that an effort will be made at the approaching session of congress to pass a resolution submitting to the various states an amendment for the constitution providing for the election of United States senators by a popular vote is of interest, because of the report that the proposition will be supported by influences that have heretofore not been identified with such a measure.

The election of senators by a popular vote has been proposed for many years, and scarcely a session has passed without a proposed amendment to the constitution providing for it. It has, however, been many years since the constitution was amended, and as it takes the affirmative vote of two thirds of the states to ratify an amendment, nothing is more difficult than to effect a change in the constitution. We do not believe that it is possible for a long time to come to secure the adoption of an amendment to provide for the election of senators by a popular vote. In the first place, such an amendment would have to pass the senate itself, and that body made up as it is largely of senators who, while able to secure successive re-elections by the vote of legislatures, might find it difficult to pass the ordeal of public elections, would not be likely to favor any change in the mode of election.

There can be no doubt, however, that the senate has declined in public regard and confidence to a very large extent, and that this decline is due in no small measure to the fact that elections to that body are so largely controlled by powerful corporations and political bosses through their ownership of state legislatures. Theoretically, the method of electing the senators is as near perfection as it is possible to reach. It seems an admirably system to elect the representative by popular vote for a short term and the senators by state legislatures for a long term. Practically, however, the working out of this system in recent years has not been all that could be desired. In fact, it has resulted in putting into the senate a good many individuals who do not by any means measure up, intellectually and morally, to the senatorial ideal.

In the Taggart case one of the lawyers called another lawyer a liar. That may be true of the lawyer, but surely no one would make insinuations of that sort against any of the witnesses.

Admission of products from the Philippines duty free will give some of the stand-patters a pain in the neighborhood of their pithoric pockets.

It is not to be expected that Secretary Shaw and Gov. Cummins can look at public questions in the same light. Iowa can have only one presidential candidate at a time.

Boston is all excitement over the prospective opening of a department store. Next summer Boston hopes to attract the attention of a travelling circus.

As he explains, Secretary Shaw is an “enthusiast” for reciprocity. All he objects to is the ratification of reciprocity treaties.

Boston will have to give up the effort to be famous for its baseball club and pin its faith to what Tom Lawson can do for it.

Even if he has to quit the army, the outlook for Capt. Taggart is not hopeless. He might run for mayor of Atlanta.

A lecture by Bourke Cockran to the Filipinos is certainly handing them a chunk of civilization from headquarters.

A German statistician thinks that Russia will soon be bankrupt. Japan, if pressed might agree to act as receiver.

Milwaukee’s more recent efforts to be famous are not of a kind to elicit general public approbation.

If Statistician Holmes has the facts and figures to show his innocence now is the time to present them.

In the peace conference President Roosevelt is not content to be an innocent bystander.

PRESS COMMENT.

Sheboygan Journal: Janesville is overrun with crickets. Accommodations there are entirely inadequate.

Baltimore Sun: It is proposed to christen the cruiser Vermont with maple syrup. “Vermont” maple syrup, little children, is a sticky fluid made of glucose in Chicago.

Appleton Crescent: It is said that 7,000 clergymen are promised to preach labor sermons on the Sunday before labor day. Those who hear them will enjoy the holiday the more.

Madison Democrat: Prof. Garner is going back to Africa to study the monkey’s language. Why so far when high school swells and rolled sleeve girls abound all about?

Green Bay Gazette: It is claimed that Mayor Rose of Milwaukee has a typewritten denial of anticipated indictment charges already drawn up to give to the newspapers as an interview.

Neenah Times: A Washington, D. C. man sends The Times a large batch of “editorial paragraphs” for publication. No, thank you, our own “editorial paragraphs” get us into about all the trouble we care for.

Milwaukee Free Press: A La Crosse newspaper claims that a student of the third city has discovered that a photograph will keep mosquitoes away. It ought to do it, certainly, but there are lots of cures that are worse than the disease.

Evening Wisconsin: If, by reason of the triumph he has achieved at Portsmouth, M. de Witte again becomes a leader in the Russian government, the peace will be doubly blessed to the Russian people, for he is Russia’s ablest public man, a man with liberal sentiments, wide knowledge, strong good sense, and unlimited working force and practical capacity.

Wausau Record: The ball is open. State Senator McGilivray has announced his candidacy for governor. W. D. Connor is said to be after the same plum and to have given the ruling machine to understand that he must be reckoned with in any plans it has for the “dear people” to follow out. And it is also understood that Speaker Lenroot has received such encouragement that he expects the mantle of the dear going-to-be-departed, if he goes to the senate, to fall at last upon his shoulders. Next will come the music.

Milwaukee News: No man bound by conservatism or precedent or usage could have taken the initiative as Mr. Roosevelt did or have become active in deliberations in which he had no direct concern. Fear of criticism, or resentment, regard for the proprieties, all would have contributed to a passive attitude. But Mr. Roosevelt is given to action and the occasion arising he has shattered precedent to the benefit of humanity and to the honor of his exalted office.

Minneapolis Journal: Mr. McConkey of Pittsburgh demands a separation from Mrs. McConkey because, while he was ill, his wife would sit on the side of his bed and ask him which undertaker he would prefer to have take charge of his last trip out. He claims to have been annoyed and harassed by the question, whereas Mrs. McConkey meant it merely as a pleasant way to help pass away the weary hours in the sickroom. Some men have no sense of humor and no man gives a woman credit for such a sense.

Oconto Reporter: Have you noticed that this year will have fifty-three Sundays? It began on Sunday and will close on Sunday. One extra to attend church, to spend in reading the Scriptures, playing with the children or breaking the two-year-old colt. Arrange to avail yourself of these opportunities which 1905 offers you, for it will be one hundred and ten years before such an opportunity will be around again. And then where’ll you be?

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The Chicago Federation of Labor has furnished new evidence to the effect that some housecleaning is needed very badly in labor circles in that city. Having had two riots and one election that election has now been “nullified” by the opposition which had planned to kidnap President Dole and prevent his attending the meeting. As Mr. Dole’s journal of the scheme in advance he simply remained away and the opposition was left in control. As a result there will now be two organizations claiming the right to the title “Chicago Federation of Labor” and the average workingman in that city who happens to be a member of a union organization, will simply pay his money and take his choice.

Superior Telegram: The Chicago Tribune, which has evidently given some special attention to affairs of the heart, expresses the following editorially: “There are many ways in which love manifests itself. One of the most positive, in married life, is in the warm meal. As an expression of true love the warm supper waiting at home for the hardworking husband cannot be beaten in this day and age. The cold meal, except, possibly, in the heated days of the summer, may be with great propriety taken as being indicative of a cold love. If a woman loves her husband the preparation of his meals is a real labor of love.” While not disposed to question as eminent an authority on questions of this kind as the Chicago Tribune we have somewhat reached the conclusion that a promoter of the tender sentiment the sea-kissed sardine has the warm meal skinned to death. Try it and see.

The Great Pacificator. Substantially, Russia gives up only what she long ago pledged herself to abandon, and what Japan has actually taken from her by the sword, not all of that, since, as reported, one-half of Sakhalin is to be retroceded, and that without payment of redemption money. While a definite and authoritative statement of the peace terms must be awaited before attempting to discuss them in detail, present indications are that Mr. Witte has carried the day with his stubborn “not a kopeck” position on the indemnity. That Japan would yield on her demands as to the interned warships and the limitation of Russia’s naval power in the Pacific was to be expected. That she cedes one-half of Sakhalin, and waives all claim to reimbursement for the cost of a defensive war that was forced on her, is well nigh incredible. If such an arrangement has been arrived at, and without some compensatory concession to Japan, its effect on Japanese popular opinion, which demanded fair indemnification and resented the suggestion of parting with one foot of Sakhalin, remains to be seen. But at all events peace is achieved. The Javay and slaughter in Manchuria is ended. The war, in its constant menace to the world’s peace, passes into history. Our American president, by his adroit seizing of the right moment, insight into the situation, patient persistence, and sheer force of character and credit for absolute honesty of purpose has won his title of The Pacificator.

Chicago Record-Herald: Reports from California say Young Lochinvar Scott’s mine Death Valley has been discovered by others. We give due notice to the “others” that no attention will be paid to their last traveling when they come East.

Marion Advertiser: Every city has its own private troubles. At Waukegan everything depends upon the price of “tators” and in New London a young man that hasn’t got the price to defend a breach of promise suit is boycotted by the girls.

Wausau Central Wisconsin: And now the report is sent out that Governor La Follette has denied that he intends to go to the United States senate. Don’t believe the governor. Mrs. La Follette has said he will go to the senate, and that settles it.

Wausau Record: The Milwaukee News says Iowa’s loss of population is due to an excess of prosperity. Perhaps her over-prosperous people come to year old Wisconsin where the growth has been humbly appreciated and the value of the farm products is $1.58 more than those of the over-prosperous state.

Acheson Globe: There must be no eavesdropping on the telephone in California, that state having passed a law making it an offense punishable by imprisonment to eavesdrop, and then speak of it afterward. Telephone eavesdropping is no better than key-hole eavesdropping anywhere.

Scientific American: If you are afraid of lightning, here is a very simple safeguard to remember: Simply put on your gum shoes or rubbers and then stand up so your clothes won’t touch anything, whether you are out of doors or in doors, you are perfectly safe, for rubbers is a non-conductor, and you are perfectly insulated. This is worth remembering. Bring out your old “gums.”

Marion Advertiser: Mary had a little lamb; that time has passed away. No lamb could follow up the gait that Mary goes today. For now she rides astride wheels in skirts too short by half; no lambkin shares her airy flight, but you can see her call. But is there one who can complain or cry in woe, “Alas!” So long as Mary’s call’s all right the lamb can go to grass. So all the men delight to gaze, their joy is not a sham, for while the other critter’s out they have no use for lamb.

Milwaukee Free Press: It is singular that in an edition describing the advantages of the city, The Eau Claire Leader should mention cheap labor as one of them. In an argument to manufacturers to induce them to locate in this city, it says that men can be hired at $1.25 per day in Eau Claire where a company would be obliged to pay $2 elsewhere. This is hardly an advantage of which the city should boast. If men are paid less at Eau Claire than elsewhere the presumption is that they are worth less to their employers. They are certainly worth Chautauqua’s Too Giddy? Chicago Chronicle: Sam Jones, who has amassed a large fortune by his witty denunciation of everything in sight, has lately given us a humorous characterization of the Chautauqua assemblies. “The Chautauqua,” he says, “is a compromise between the old camp meeting and the county fair; people haven’t got enough religion nowadays to run the former and they are tired of the latter.” Sam is ably seconded in his criticism by B. F. Mitchell, one of the field officers of the American Sunday School union, who complains that the Chautauqua has “taken a wide departure from the principles for which it was organized by Bishop Vincent at Chautauqua, N. Y., long ago.” He says: “The giddy part of it is made up of all kinds of vaudeville specialties, tricks of magic and too much of the theater and suburban park.” The truth of these criticisms might be admitted and yet the Chautauqua would remain an admirable and valuable institution. The New York Chautauqua was founded thirty years ago for the single purpose of studying Sunday school work. Afterward, by the organization of its literary circle, it became a system of popular education by correspondence and co-operation. It has always been connected with summer recreation, but its intensely religious spirit has never been abandoned. There is even a complaint that it is too puritanical. The only fault The Chronicle has to find with Chautauqua is that some of them seem unable to get through Sunday without the help of some such reformer as Sam Jones or William J. Bryan.

Wishing They Had Balloons. St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The Globe-Democrat the other day pointed out that Gen. Butler, during his ascendancy in New Orleans in 1862, cleaned that town so completely that yellow jack not only flew from it, but stayed away for several years, until he made sure that Ben had left the place for good. On one point this assertion is wrong, according to the Mobile Register. “Gen. Butler did some cleaning,” says that paper, “but all persons who have any acquaintance with the topography of New Orleans know that he did not clean it thoroughly. The only way to do that is to run the Mississippi through it.”

When somebody asked Disraeli just before he became premier the first time how to solve the Irish problem, he said: “Sink Ireland 275 feet below the surface of St. George’s channel, and leave it there for ten years.” The Register’s cure for New Orleans’ yellow fever and other pestilences is equally effective. If the Mississippi were turned on to it, and allowed to flow over it until the latter part of November, jack frost would find that something had been ahead of him in cleaning out yellow jack.

But our Meville contemporary makes a nasty assault on Blenheim. When that old promoter of a cone of centuries ago was looking around for a site on which to plant his seat of empire in the big valley he had half of a continent from which to choose. Just why he staked out the marsh on which he built New Orleans is something that nobody can find out. Still, the blunder having been committed, it might have been in the power of the citizens of the place, in the after time to right it, to some extent. Several American towns have lifted themselves by their bootstraps. Chicago did this. Likewise Galveston just after the tidal wave of a few years ago. But the Register ought to let up on Louis XV.’s old empire builder. He is getting enough abuse from the thousands in New Orleans at this moment who wish they had balloons so that they could run the shotgun quarantine which Gov. Vandaman and others have planted around them.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It is claimed that Milwaukee is becoming a recognized center for the recruiting of chorists girls. Possibly this helps explain the scarcity of servant girls in this part of the country.

Madison Journal: How true it is that cheek pays in politics! Here is windy McIlhenny pushing and tearing round to be made governor while men like J. H. Stout, whose shoes “Mac” is not worthy to unlouse say nothing.

St. Louis Republic: A corn year in Missouri means much to the world. This is a corn year. Editor Palmer of Carrollton relates an incident of the fields, showing the size of the ears in this country. An enterprising farmer wishing to utilize every foot of a valuable space, planted corn on the roadway of an abandoned switch which lay parallel to the main tracks. A few nights ago a high wind blew down one of the stalks across the main track. The far-sighted engineer of the through train approaching discovered what he thought was a huge boulder in the way, and halted the train at a distance of several hundred yards. The obstacle proved to be an ear of corn which, according to Mr. Palmer, required twenty men to remove it.

GIRLS SHOULD BE EARNEST.

The same joy may not come to you twice, so make the most of it.

Perseverance does so much for us if we can only have the courage and tenacity of purpose to believe in it.

Some girls think it rather smart to be indifferent. They think to be blasé means to be something very fascinating.

Friends and employers may put opportunities in your way, but unless you take advantage of them they will do you no good.

You know you are the architect of your own success. You are the one most interested in it, the one who must do the work.

They make a great mistake, for no one bothers about the indifferent girl, and no one finds anything interesting in the one who is blasé.

Even if you don’t like the work you are at present engaged in, do it well. You never can tell but that it may be the opening to your true vocation.

Play is the antidote to work, and when it comes time to play put all work out of your mind and let the joy of living and fun fill you from head to foot.

Be alert and alive, girls; make the most of every minute of your youth and health and vitality. The world’s a pretty fine old place and your chances are just as good as any one else’s.—Boston Globe.

Lamp Post Cellarette.

A novel cellarette has been found in the shape of a lamp post, with a letter box attached. WANTED—Position by young man in store or office with chance of advancement. Address: A. B. C. this office.

SOLD.—The large tract of land I have offered in the Stuart estate has been snapped up and the lucky purchaser stands to double his money in 12 months.

I have another tract which is offered as a part of the Stuart estate consisting of a 370 acre improved ranch in Stanislaus county, North Dakota, which will be sold at a low price in order to close this estate.

I will have full particulars with regard to terms and prices in all of their prospective value because quick action must be made in order to make final settlement of the estate. Lands near by are bringing fancy prices, and as investments the opportunities are of the national sort. They must be taken quickly, if it is to be.

Have those interested should consult me at once.

VALUABLE INFORMATION

Each man has one chance in a lifetime to reach the point of success, and this opportunity is offered in Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, the three great agricultural and timber States, where land can be purchased at from $3.50 to $20 per acre, that is producing from $30 to $500 per acre each year, in cotton, corn, hay, sugar cane, fruit and vegetables. The returns from alfalfa growing in this district have proven a record breaker—six crops each year or six tons per acre at $15.00 per ton on local markets is what is claimed. All that is necessary is for the homeseeker or investor to look over the situation personally, as the country speaks for itself, and on the first and third Tuesdays of each month Homeseekers’ tickets are offered at rate of one fare plus $2.00 for the round trip. Four daily trains from St. Louis. Free reclining chair cars.

Write us and we will furnish free descriptive literature and further information regarding our wonderful territory.

John Milton in Russia. The most popular author in all Russia is John Milton, whose “Paradise Lost” is read in every peasant’s cottage. “Paradise Lost” is the book most read in the village library. At a fair in Moscow there were seen five or six different translations of “Paradise Lost,” with illustrations, at a few pence apiece. Milton is to the Russian peasant what Shakespeare is to the Germans.—Sphere.

ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING OPENED

PRESIDENT COVERT WELCOMED
LARGE AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT.

EXCELLENT SERVICES TODAY

Elder Farnsworth, lately of Australia, To Speak at Session This Evening.

With an audience of about three hundred people, among whom there was heavy sprinkling of Janesville residents, who are always welcome at any and all sessions, the thirty-sixth annual camp-meeting and State Conference of the Wisconsin Organization of Seventh Day Adventists was opened in the pavilion at Palmer's Grove last evening. The initial service was a song worship led by a choir under the direction of Professor Serns of Collegeview, Nebraska. Miss Ethel Williams of Milwaukee presided at the organ. The number of singers in the choir will be greatly increased as more come upon the grounds. Eld. McEynolds of Kansas City, Kan., announced the opening hymn, which was followed by prayer by Elder Kauble of Berrien Springs, Mich. After the announcing and reading of a second hymn by Elder Nelson of Oshkosh, President Covert addressed the audience. His first remarks were filled with praise to God that He had spared the lives of those present to gather in another annual conference. In a beautiful manner he welcomed all and expressed his hope that this be an excellent meeting.

President Covert Speaks
After these first remarks President Covert took a text found in Matt. 24:42-44, which reads: "Watch therefore for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. But know this, that if the son of man do come, he will find the doors open." He spoke of the many signs that point to the coming of this "son of man," and that those who are watching, and studying the word will know of the time. Special emphasis was placed, however, upon the necessity of always being ready. To those who are ready the son of man will not come as a thief in the night. He spoke of the many signs that point to the coming of this "son of man," and that those who are watching, and studying the word will know of the time. Special emphasis was placed, however, upon the necessity of always being ready. To those who are ready the son of man will not come as a thief in the night.

The Services Today
More Adventists from out of the city arrived today and took up quarters on the grounds. The morning services, as usual, were not largely attended by others than the campers, but interesting addresses were delivered. The day was ushered in with the "rising bell" at five-twenty. The first program was at six o'clock and was well attended by those living on the grounds. Elder McEynolds occupied about twenty-five minutes with interesting remarks and a testimony and praise service followed. Elder Kauble gave the principal discourse at the morning preaching service at ten-thirty. For a text he used the fifteenth and sixteenth verses of Ephesians V: "See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise. Redeeming the time, because the days are evil." A brief summary of his talk is as follows: In order to redeem we must walk circumspectly and the thought in the word redeeming is that there has been a lack of faith in the past. The essence of all true faith is doing the right thing at the right time. The right thing is what God commands and the right time is when He commands that his orders be executed. The world which is influenced by the lives of all watches each one's conduct and decides by that one's act whether or not he or she has genuine faith.

Business Meeting
At half-past two this afternoon another service was held in the auditorium tent. Elder F. Stebbins of Monroe was the speaker and several hundred listened to his address. The first business meeting of the conference was slated for four o'clock this afternoon. Matters of importance were expected to come up and be passed upon.

Tonight at seven-thirty a preaching service will be held. A singing program will open and Elder Farnsworth, lately of Australia, one of the leaders in the Adventists' international society, will speak. His discourse will be one of the finest of the entire gathering. A large attendance at this session is anticipated.

The New Arrivals
Ministers arriving before yesterday not already mentioned are: Elder F. E. Petersen of Barbours, Elder J. S. Shrock of Oshkosh, S. T. Shadel of Monroe, L. L. French of Black Creek. Those arriving yesterday are Elder F. Stebbins of Monroe, Elder L. E. Suffolk of Wausau, M. Serns of Cambridge, J. Kloss of Superior, C. D. AcMoody of Ashland, Elder J. B. Scott of Madison and C. W. Oles of Waukesha arrived this morning. Many arrivals are expected today and tomorrow.

DEAL WILL INVOLVE A MILLION DOLLARS

Transfer of the R. J. & B. Interurban Property Likely To Be Consummated Sept. 11.

There are new indications that the R. J. & B. Interurban line is to change hands very shortly. Who the parties are that are seeking to buy it is not known but J. R. Nutt, the Cleveland financier, is acting for them. A large block of stock was sold in this county yesterday. The option on the 10,000 shares on which $10,000 has been paid down, extends until Sept. 11 and it is probable that the transfer will not be made until that time. To secure the stock and bonds of this company will involve the outlay of $1,000,000. In response to an inquiry as to whether his firm was the one interested sent out from Beloit, John Farnson of Chicago, head of the financial firm of Farnson, Leach & Co., answered: "I do not care to make any statement on the matter mentioned." It is not believed that the transfer will cause any change in the management.

PIONEERS' PICNIC AT HO-NO-NE-GAH

Was Attended by Several Thousand People Yesterday—Janesville Was Well Represented.

Several thousand people attended the annual picnic of the pioneers at Ho-No-Ne-Gah park yesterday. Nearly eight hundred teams were used under the trees in the park. The afternoon program began with music by the Imperial band of Janesville, followed by prayer by Dr. R. W. Bosworth. Another musical selection was followed by Dr. G. R. Vanhorne's address. The band played again and Senator J. M. Whitehead spoke. After another selection a series of reminiscences was given. Daniel Burdick, the oldest resident of Beloit, was on the grounds and received the congratulations of hundreds. Greetings were received from Mrs. Harry Hunt of that city who has passed her 103rd birthday. W. H. Tripp presented the society with a gavel made from his famous mahogany sidewalk.

EAGLES PLANNING A BIG CARNIVAL

WILL DO EVERYTHING TO MAKE WEEK MOST SUCCESSFUL.

TO CHOOSE CARNIVAL QUEEN

Friday Will Be the Big Day—Every thing Being Done to Make the Affair a Success.

"Citizens of Janesville are making a mistake when they imagine that the Eagles are going to allow all kinds of license and freedom of an objectionable character on the streets," said of an objectionable character, said Chairman Edward Amerphol of the arrangements committee this morning. "We are planning to give a carnival which will be a carnival and nothing objectionable will be allowed." "There is to be no gambling of any description permitted, no selling of beer or liquors in a tent and the shows will all be carefully inspected to see that nothing objectionable is presented. The throwing of confetti, the sale or use of return balls, or the use of hour or meal will not be tolerated for one minute. When the carnival opens the Eagles would consider it a favor if any citizen who sees objectionable features would notify the committee, so that the matter may be remedied at once."

Hard at Work
The committee of arrangements of the Eagles, consisting of Edward Amerphol, J. J. Cunningham, Tom McKelvie, Hugh Joyce, and Patrick Garvin, is hard at work making arrangements for a successful week. Contracts have been let for the stringing of fourteen arches of electric lights over the streets, and bunting, and flags will make the scene a gay one. There is some talk of arranging for baseball games every morning between the local Eagle team and visiting nines. This has not yet taken definite form, but is one of the plans projected. The shows do not open until noon, so there would be time in the mornings for this feature. The Eagles have full control of the concessions and will allow no games of chance to be run. The concession committee consists of J. C. Nichols, Ed. Amerphol and Dr. Merritt. They also act as the committee on censorship of the shows.

Friday the Day
Friday is to be the big day. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the election of the Queen of the Carnival, the vote continuing for this honor throughout the week and closing Thursday night at eight. On Friday evening there is to be an automobile and vehicle parade, for which handsome prizes have been purchased, including one for the carnival queen. These are on exhibition in Hall & Sayles' windows. Friday afternoon there will be the Eagles' parade. Invitations have been sent to the armies in Beloit, Green Bay, Rockford, Fond du Lac, Appleton, Oshkosh, Madison, Belvidere, and Milwaukee and it is expected a goodly number will be present. This parade and the evening vehicle parade will be the climax of the week and every energy is being devoted to make it a success.

The Objections
"I am sorry some of the merchants think we are trying to obstruct the streets," said Mr. Amerphol. "There will be no show placed in front of any merchant's place of business who objects. We received permission of the council to use the streets with the understanding that we should not block the streets for traffic. The shows will be placed under the direction of the committee of the Eagles, the Mayor, the chief of the fire department and the representative of the carnival company. The shows will not drive one stake in any of the streets. The frontage wagon fronts which open out and have no flapping banners to scare horses. Large sand bags are used in place of stakes, so that there will be no damage to pavement or macadam. In fact, I am told these shows have been placed on asphalt streets without damage to them. The Eagles have guaranteed that the streets will be cleaned up and we will see that this is done promptly."

The Selection of Queen
The committee in charge have selected several valuable pieces of jewelry as a prize for the Queen to be selected—diamond rings and watches. The queen to have her choice. The coronation ceremonies are to be in keeping with the whole occasion. Parades of Eagles' lodges, brass bands and fitting tribute to the Queen, who will be escorted by five of her friends. The contest is open to all single ladies in the city. The voting stations will be at the following stores: Connell's Cigar store, McCue & Buss Drug-store, Myers House office, J. M. Eastwick & Sons, Geo. Simpson's Dry-Goods store, Frank George's confectionary store and the People's Drug-store. The votes will be furnished with envelopes in which to place the money, a cent a vote, and the number of votes for the candidate. No limit is placed on the number of votes cast. The results will be made known each afternoon through the papers, the contest to close on Friday noon, next.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Baptists Go to Clinton: Rev. R. M. Vaughan, Mrs. B. F. Dunwiddie, and Mrs. J. T. Fitchett will take part in the program of the Janesville Association of Baptist churches, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week. Members from Elkhorn, Evansville, Aiton, Clinton, Eau Claire, Albany, and Brookfield will also take part.
Police Became Playmen: At two o'clock Wednesday morning Officers Bear, Morrissey, and Cox, armed with ropes, gave chase to a couple of cattle, which wandered into the business section of the city. One of the tawin, a three-year-old, succeeded in eluding its pursuers and got away on Court street. The other, a yearling calf, was captured on South River street by Officers Cox and Bear and is at the former's home awaiting its owner.

GEORGE NELSON BECOMES A HERO

SAVED ELIZABETH BOOTH, AGED THIRTEEN, FROM DROWNING.

INCIDENT OCCURRED IN RACE

Lad Climbed Down Fire Escape from Marzloff Shoe Factory and Jumped in Water.

By the alacrity and bravery of George Nelson, a boy employed at the Marzloff Shoe factory, Elizabeth Booth, thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Booth, North Franklin street, was saved from drowning in the raceway this morning. She, with a companion, Stella Corwin, entered a rowboat, that was pulled to shore just above the Western Shoe company's plant, on North River street, to play, thinking that it was fastened to a nearby willow. Their fun had no more than commenced when they noticed they were drifting toward the middle of the stream. Both jumped from the tipping boat. Stella Corwin reached a place where the water was only knee-deep, but the little Booth girl was less fortunate, touching the surface of the water where its depth is several feet—over her head. Stella Corwin immediately screamed for help and Mrs. Booth and several men were attracted to the scene. George Nelson, who was at work near one of the windows on the east side of Marzloff's manufactory realized the situation almost immediately and quickly commenced his heroic work. He climbed down a fire-escape from the second story of the building, dashed across the road and jumped for the sinking girl. Grasping her by the clothes he was able to pull her to the shore, where, with assistance of others they were brought up the bank, which though not exceedingly high is steep at this point. The girl believes she sank twice and was confined to bed today as a result of the fright which she had received. Herself and parents are sincerely thankful to the young man who rescued her and to the neighbors who assisted in caring for her afterwards.

PRIZE-WINNERS AT BEAUTY BABY SHOW

Little Girls Carried Off Most of the Awards at Yesterday's Unique Entertainment.

Infant boys, as was to be anticipated, came out second best in the baby show contest at Central hall yesterday. The little girls carried away all the prizes, with one exception. Isabelle Fletcher, age 1 1/2 months, took the first prize in the first class and Hilda Mathew, the second prize. Frances Kenneth Beck, whose home is at 158 Center avenue, won the first prize in the second class; and Marion Ormsbee, the second prize. Louise Higgins was awarded the silver spoon as the fairest of the little people from two to three years old, and George Henry Davis carried off the gold-plated second prize. While the promoters of the undertaking did not make a fortune, the show was a success and furnished one of the most unique entertainments given here this season.

JAMES SHERIDAN RETURNS FROM VISIT IN IRELAND

Janesville Man Had a Delightful Summer on the Other Side of the Atlantic.

James Sheridan, who has been spending several months in Ireland, his native land, and whose interesting letter to the Gazette a few weeks ago will be recalled, returned home last evening. Mr. Sheridan enjoyed every moment of his sojourn among old scenes and old friends and was fortunate enough to encounter good weather on both of the ocean trips.

Charles Roy, the clever
Chippeway Indian Pitcher, Wanted by Big League Teams --- As to Umpiring --- Lumley's
Varied Ball Career.

At the close of the schedule of the Carlisle (Pa.) Indian school baseball team Charles Roy, the pitcher, who was most of their victories, stood out with unusual prominence. Roy is a Chippeway Indian from the state of Minnesota. He is a big Indian in several respects. Although but twenty-one years of age he weighs 175 pounds and is six feet tall in his stocking feet. Although he is not and has never been the possessor of a real Indian name, his father bears the unusual cognomen of "Gahlden," which, translated into English, is equivalent to Benjamin.

Charles Roy entered Carlisle in September, 1904, and, although he had some athletic training at other schools, has only done remarkable work as a pitcher there. He first went to school at Plandreau, S. D., and later to Morris, Minn., where he first twirled

CHARLES ROY, CHIPPEWAY INDIAN TWIRLER, the sphere under the tutelage of his brother, Louis Roy, after undergoing a brief novitiate at Carlisle.

He has been pitching altogether but four years, and his strong right arm puts remarkable speed into a ball. Roy is wanted by two major league teams.

The average citizen finds it hard to understand how anything but direct necessity can drive a man to be a baseball umpire. Of course rather than starve to death almost any one would consent to become a butt for the bullying jeers and insinuations of the bleachers, a target for pop bottles and the common enemy of ball players.

But it isn't the prospect of starvation that fills the umpire's ranks, for an umpire must be a man who has brains enough to get along at some other kind of a job if he chooses. Why he doesn't choose another more humble but certainly less terrifying branch of labor is the mystery. There must be a peculiar fascination about setting oneself up in opposition to the world. League presidents are deluged with applications from would-be judges of play.

So far as quantity goes, the supply is greater than the demand. As for the quality, that is another story. The fact remains that there are plenty of good men who seem to prefer to take their battle, murder and sudden death on the ball field rather than enter some quieter and safer employment.

One big reason is that a good umpire makes fair money, enough to keep him comfortably through the winter.

HARRY LUMLEY, BROOKLYN OUTFIELDER, engagement was with the Rome (New York league) club in 1901, from which club St. Paul of the American association drafted him. He played with St. Paul in 1902. In 1903 he played part of the season with Colorado Springs, but finished the season with the Seattle club of the then outlaw Pacific Coast league.

Arthur Duffey, Sprinting
Champion, Retires --- W. W.
Coe, Greatest Shot Putter.

Arthur P. Duffey, champion sprinter of the world, who, recently returned from a successful trip abroad, has decided to retire from the cinder path. His reason for retiring is that he is tired of the game. He feels that he has had his day and that he would rather retire when at the height of his fame than wait until defeat forces him out.

While abroad Duffey won two new championships and established three world's records for short distance events. His best performance was his victory over G. A. Whitman, the Australian 100 yard champion, who had not been defeated before in years. Duffey also took the measure of MacPherson of New Zealand.

In speaking of his trip to New Zealand Duffey says that the runners there were started at the pace of the race track in this country. Every runner has to stop into his partition, with a barrier across his breast, and when everybody is ready, the starter snaps it. About Australian runners, Duffey says they are slow to begin, but when once under way there are no faster men in the world.

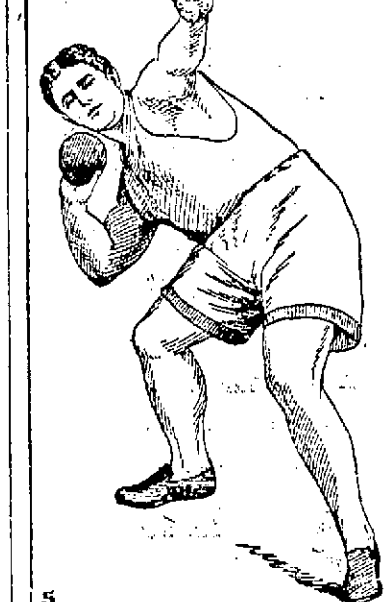

Of English runners he says: "Let them once master a quick start and there will be no sprinters in the world who will have anything on them. As it is now, there is no question in my mind, and my victories away from home would tend to show it, that the Yankee short distance men are, as a class, as much superior to the English as the English distance runners are superior to the Americans."

"Grass running is a new game for Americans, and many of the English and colonial races are held on turf tracks. Grass running for a man used to it is no joke until he has long practice at it. A Yankee sprinter who is sure of the even time every time he starts in the 100 yard dash on the cinders is lucky if he does 10-15 in his first race on grass.

"The crouch start is, however, rapidly displacing every other starting position in the English countries, and the improvement in their sprinting since its adoption has been remarkable. When I first went abroad four years ago I was never hardly extended to win my races, but now the English sprinters are but a little way behind the American, and coming fast."

Wesley W. Coe of Cambridge, Mass., is now the world's greatest shot putter. He has relegated to the rear the feats of Ralph Rose, the former Michigan champion.

The put of 49 feet 6 inches which Coe made in Portland, Ore., recently was a most remarkable one. He not only beat Rose by nearly two feet, but he eclipsed the former world record by a foot. Rose is said to have put the shot more than fifty feet in practice, and with Coe's record to urge him on he will undoubtedly refuse to rest until he has officially beaten Coe's latest mark.

W. W. COE, PUTTING THE SHOT.

A Proposed New Ball Rule.
At one of the recent annual meetings of the National league a resolution was introduced which prohibited appointing an outfielder to the position of manager or field captain of a team. The resolution was voted down because some of the managers were already provided with managers who played in the garden. But the resolution has not died. On the contrary, it has set the leaders of the older league thinking, and it is predicted in a few years such a rule will be adopted.

Baseball
Really a Business

Tremendous Sums Concerned In Conducting the National Game.
Ranks With Wheat
Speculation as an Investment --- Men Who Have Made Money.

Over $2,577,000 is paid out in salaries to the professional baseball players of the United States each year. Over $2,500,000 is paid in other salaries and in expenses of maintaining the grounds of the professional clubs, about $800,000 in railroad fares, about $100,000 in sleeping car fares, about $125,000 in training expenses, and perhaps $500,000 in additional expenses.

And this is only counting the expenses of the organized baseball leagues of the United States registered and recorded under the national agreement. The total expense of operating baseball in the United States as an organized sport, therefore is in the neighborhood of $7,000,000, according to the estimates of those best posted, which means that approximately 25,000,000 paid admissions must be received before the team owners can break even on their investments.

The fact remains that nearly one-half of the baseball club owners of the United States lose money every year.

As a business investment baseball ranks with wheat speculation or is even more risky than that, and few except the rich can afford to go into the game. A few men, like John T. Brush, who owns the New York National club, or, rather, holds it in his name for A. Freedman and others, and Colonel John Rogers of Philadelphia, have made money in baseball as an investment. Charles Comiskey of the Chicago Americans, too, by his shrewdness and foresight has made a lot of money, and the owners of the Chicago National league club, all except Anson, have made money, for what has been made has been put into improvements of the plant. But even in those big organizations, like the National and American leagues, there are times when it is hard to make the league a money maker.

It is a queer business. In the league eight club owners form a partnership and practically agree to divide the profits of the year—that is, the visiting team gets nearly half the entire receipts, no matter where it plays, receiving 12 1/2 cents out of each 25 cent admission and 25 cents out of each 50 cent, 75 cent and $1 admission. As nearly 90 per cent of the total admissions are 50 cents or under, the visitors get nearly one-half, the home team having the advantage only on grand stand and box seat sales.

After forming this partnership the team owners go in for themselves. The first effort is to beat the other seven partners out of the best ball players and form a winning club. Each one of the eight struggles and fights to get the players and the winning team, and then those partners, dividing profits equally, try to beat each other out of every ball game. "To lose games means to lose money, for the team whipped even twice in succession feels the falling off at the box office.

There are in this country perhaps not more than twenty-five really first class ball players. This of course is exclusive of pitchers. The American league comes near averaging two really great ball players to the club, and the National runs about the same. This equalization is the result of raids made by the American upon the National during the war between them. The National, losing many famous stars, was forced to go out and find new players to develop into wonders. In three years perhaps the National will have a majority of the stars and the American stars will be going back rapidly—and most of them gone.

A ball player like Lajoie, Wagner or Keeler cannot be bought with money. In fact, whenever a really great ball player is sold—one good in every department of the game, batting, base running, fielding and throwing—there is back of that sale something, perhaps of a personal nature, which forces a club to sell him.

Uses for Whalebone.
Whalebone is principally used in Paris for making whips, corset stays and stiffening for silk dresses. Germany and England get a good share.

THE CHESTERFIELD MODEL.
The best type of the tailor's art is displayed in this costume, of which the coat is cut upon the Chesterfield model, its many well-defined seams defined with rows of silk stitching, collar and lapels after the accepted tailors model, sleeve a little fuller on the top than usual, and the long circular skirts cut so that they hang faultlessly. One of the soft French gorges is employed, a stone gray in color. The double-breasted fastening is carried with self-buttons placed in a double row, and smaller ones of the same kind appear on the cuff. The skirt shows two deep inverted pleats, concealing the bias seam that appears down the front—these are merely pressed flat from hand to hem; and a plain machine-stitched hem is the only finish that is accorded at the foot.

APPEAL OF POWERS DOCKETED

Question of Jurisdiction in Case Now Before Highest Tribunal.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The appeal of the state of Kentucky in its case against Caleb Powers, under prosecution on the charge of being a party to the murder of Gov. Goebel, docketed in the supreme court of the United States. The state's appeal is from the decision of Judge Cochran of the federal court, and the only question involved is that of jurisdiction. The name of former Gov. Black of New York and former Gov. Yates of Illinois appear in the list of Powers' attorneys.

General Strike in Libau.

Libau, Russia, Aug. 31.—A general strike has been brought about here by the order for the mobilization of troops. Steam railroad communication has been interrupted and no newspapers are issued. Arrival of reservists from the neighboring country districts has added to the confusion, as well as to the possibilities of disorder. The situation is growing tense and many soldiers are patrolling the streets.

Tornado Does Much Damage.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 31.—A tornado struck the northern part of Carbonate and demolished a score of houses, barns and railroad cars, but fortunately caused no fatalities. Three dwellings were destroyed, ten were overturned or carried off their foundations, and fully fifty were more or less damaged.

Shonts' Arm Infected.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the executive committee of the isthmian canal commission, is suffering from a dangerous sore arm by vaccination just before he started for the isthmus several weeks ago. The physicians have told Mr. Shonts to look forward to a troublesome time.

Rheumatism
Like Neuralgia, is now known to be a nervous disease. The kidneys become weak through lack of nerve energy, and fail to filter the uric acid from the blood; this acid attacks and burns the nerves and muscles, and consumes the oil in the joints, producing inflammation, fever, swelling—pain.
To cure Rheumatism, then, you must restore the kidney nerves and muscles, and neutralize the effect of the acid upon the joints and tissues with Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, a nerve medicine, which has made many cures of this painful disease. Nervine strengthens the kidney nerves and increases the circulation, and relief is assured.
"Before I took Dr. Miles' Nervine, I had been looking for a cure for Rheumatism for 25 years. The last time I was laid up for several months, could not get out of bed or set foot on the floor. I tried remedies to rub in, to drink, doctors' prescriptions, etc., but none of them had any effect. One day I read about Dr. Miles' Nervine and got a bottle. After the first dose I had a good night's rest, and after taking half a bottle the pains disappeared, and I went out and walked all around the town. In a week I went to work, and was perfectly cured, but continued to take the medicine for 4 days, to make sure the pains would not come back."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

HOWEVER graceful the Frenchman might be on foot, and no one denied his elegance of bearing, he was but an amateur on horseback, and when his steed unexpectedly plunged forward he relinquished the reins and grasped the mane. For one brief moment the attention of the troop was diverted toward the unexplained antics of the maddened horse and the imminent overthrow of its rider. If it had been the horse of Armstrong that had begun these antics, his guards would have been instantly on the alert for an attempted escape, but at the very moment their eyes should have been on the Scot their attention was withdrawn. Armstrong did not laugh, but thrusting back his knife, whipped out his sword and struck De Courcy's horse twice with the broad of it. His own steed leaped forward under the prick of the spur, and before the colonel could give a word of command the two had disappeared in the fog ahead. Even then the colonel, who was the only man that had his wits about him, did not think there was the least chance of escape, for he heard the troop coming toward him, and Armstrong must run directly into it. He rose in his stirrups to give the alarm to those ahead, when all heard a ringing shout: "Charge, cavaliers! God save the king! Charge!"

Out of the fog came a spattering fire, then a volley. Two horses and three men went down, while the other troopers hastily unslinging their carbines and fired down the street without waiting for the word of command. "Stop, you fools!" yelled the colonel. "You are shooting your own men." Then to the oncomers he roared a like warning, which was drowned in another volley. The Lichfield men were not to be taken in, even if they had heard the warning. With their own eyes they had seen two cavaliers burst upon them out of the fog with a strident cry for the king. De Courcy, coming first, they concentrated upon him, and he went down before them. Armstrong, swinging his sword, snuffing right and left, bellowing like a fiend in true cavalier style, a very Prince Rupert came again, dashed at the weakest spot, and his impetuosity carried all before him. "Never mind him!" cried the leader as some would have pursued. "Fire, and break their charge!" And fire they did right stoutly until a maddened officer, with a bravery that scorned the bullets around him, galloped along their front, waving his sword and commanding them to stop.

"You are killing your own men!" There are no royalists, but an interfering fool of a Frenchman and an escaped Scot. Back to Lichfield! Nevertheless a battle is not quelled at a word, and the brave colonel pressed through among them and galloped in pursuit of his late prisoner. Once clear of the clash Armstrong was not sparing of a horse that belonged to some one else. At great risk to his neck he raced through the blind fog, sword in hand, ready for further opposition should he meet it. He emerged from the fog with a suddenness that startled him. The sun had set, and there, barely a mile away, stood out against the darkening sky the great red bulk of the cathedral with its war-broken towers and the little town huddled at its feet. At the same moment he became aware that some one was thundering after him, and again he dug the cruel spurs into the laboring horse.

A glance over his shoulder showed him the colonel breaking through the bank of fog, and he thought of turning and fighting him on the run, but the sound of firing had ceased, and he knew the colonel would prove a stouter combatant than the Frenchman, so he hurried on. Aside from this, Lichfield had been roused by the sound of the guns, and he saw the long, narrow street that lay between him and the cathedral becoming alive with pikemen and knew he would have his work cut out for him if he was to get safely through the town. As soon as he came within earshot he shouted to them: "Barriade the street! The king is upon us. I have just escaped. Our men are on the retreat. Defend the town to the south. Barriade! Barriade!" Thus he clattered through Lichfield, shouting.

The soldiers began the running out of carts and whatever other obstructions they could lay their hands upon to make the way difficult for the oncoming colonel, who swore as loudly at their stupidity as if he were the king's own.

"What are you about, you cursed clodhoppers? Don't you know a king's man when you see one? Leave that rubbish and follow me to the cathedral!" Armstrong's horse, nearly done, staggered over the bridge and up the slight incline that led to the cathedral precincts. Across the sounds surrounding the church had been raised a great earthwork, and the battered west front of the sacred building showed that war had been no respecter of sculptured beauty. A lone pikeman paced up and down before the cathedral door, but paused as he saw this impetuous rider, whose horse had quibbled and fallen at the top of the rubbish heap.

"What do you there?" shouted Armstrong, springing nimbly from his fallen horse. "Didn't you hear the firing? Down to the street and help your comrades! The town is attacked! Run!"

"I was told to stand here," objected the bewildered guard. "Run, confound you! Do you question the word of an officer?" The man, trailing his pike, ran and disappeared down the street. "Frances, Frances, are you within? Open the small door. It is I, Armstrong." "Yes, yes; I knew you would come," he heard her say, and then followed the welcome rattle of the bolts. But they must be speedily drawn if they were to clear the way for a man hind pressed. Over the barricade surged a wave of pikemen, two-score or more, the mounted colonel behind them, urging them on with pungent oaths. "Sanctuary! Sanctuary!" shouted Armstrong, raising his sword aloft, standing under the arched doorway, steadfast as one of the stone knights beside him.

In spite of the cursing of the colonel, in spite of the battered condition of the great church, in spite of the deadening influence of the war, the cry of "Sanctuary" struck home to many of the hearts there opposed to the fugitive, and the pike topped crest of the human wave paused for one brief instant, yet it was enough. Before the wave broke and fell the small door gave and swung inward. As the pikers tilted against it Armstrong had the bars and bolts in their places again. "Break down that door!" he heard the colonel roar outside, while the impetuous William clapped the girl in his arms and kissed her.

"Lassie, I'm glad to meet you again, although it's just dark enough in this place for the seeing of any one."

ONE WORD IN TIME

Is Better Than Two Afterwards. A Chance to Profit By a Janesville Man's Experience.

It is a strange thing how people will put away an opportunity until too late; it's only little things that go to make up our every day existence; the trouble is we don't pay sufficient attention to them. Backache is a little thing. Sometimes it comes after a hard day's work or a slight cold. It will pass off, you say; it's only the result of overtaking my back. It isn't the fault of your back but your kidneys. The exertion or straining has interfered with their delicate mechanism. You call it backache, but it really is kidney ache. If the kidneys are not relieved, chronic disorders set in and this is where the "little thing" should not be passed over. A Janesville man has learned to appreciate what delay means.

Mr. H. W. Rodgers, carpenter of 210 South Main street says: "My wife had kidney complaint and rheumatism for five years suffering a great deal from pain across the loins. Doan's Kidney Pills, sold by the People's Drug Co., brought much longer for and gratifying results. First there was no visible change and she came to the conclusion that they were like all other remedies she had tried but finally the aching and the distress in the small of the back disappeared."

HAD GOOD VIEW OF ECLIPSE OF SUN

Janesville People Who Got Up Early Enough Yesterday Morning, Saw Wonderful Sight.

Janesville residents who consented to deny themselves their customary "beauty sleep" yesterday morning for the sake of astronomical research were rewarded with an exceptionally fine view of the sun's eclipse, which was partial in this latitude and total in portions of Canada. The fact that the sun was under the shadow at the time it appeared above the horizon and that its rays were subdued by a bank of thin clouds made the spectacle much more distinct.

Conditions were decidedly unpromising on the preceding evening, when a rain storm came up, and for this reason it is believed that many people decided not to attempt to witness the eclipse. During the first few minutes after the sun came up the use of smoked glass was not necessary, but as the orb cleared itself of the mist colored spectacles and sections of window pane were brought into requisition.

The magnitude of the eclipse in this section occasioned considerable surprise, as it was supposed that only a small portion of the moon's disk would pass before the sun. When the eclipse was at its height, however, the sun bore resemblance to the moon at first quarter, the bright crescent increasing gradually until it became a circle.

MORTUARY MENTION

Ransom Griffin
The funeral of the late Ransom Griffin was held this morning and the remains shipped to Oregon, Wisconsin, for interment. The services were from the home at half-past ten and Rev. R. C. Denison was the officiating clergyman. The pallbearers were S. B. Kenyon, John W. Lloyd, William Luck, and O. V. Benson. The body was taken to Oregon on the quarter of twelve train over the North-Western line and the Masonic ceremonies performed at the grave.

Hazel Irene Goodman
Hazel Irene Goodman, three-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Goodman, died this morning at the home of her parents, 433 South High street. Funeral services over the remains will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the home and interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Marcellus C. Olin
Marcellus C. Olin, aged sixty-two years and a resident of Janesville for the past thirty-four years, died very suddenly at half-past twelve o'clock this morning of heart failure. He was a highly respected citizen and there are left to mourn his death a wife, three sons and a daughter. The children are Guy Olin of this city, Eugene Olin of Madison and Fred Olin and Mrs. Kuehn of Janesville. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Sanford A. Hudson
The remains of the late Sanford A. Hudson arrived here at nine-fifteen this morning from Fargo, North Dakota, and were taken immediately to Oak Hill cemetery for funeral services and burial. Rites were performed over the remains in Fargo Tuesday evening and the ceremonies here were brief. Rev. A. H. Barrington officiated and the pallbearers were J. W. Sale, A. A. Jackson, William Smith, E. D. McGowan, T. F. Foote, and S. Truelson. The body was accompanied by three children of the deceased, Attorney S. R. Theodore C. Hudson of Paynesville, Minnesota, and Sarah Hudson of Fargo, North Dakota. Another daughter survives, Miss Fannie Hudson of Fargo.

Sanford Hudson was born in Oxford, Mass., May 16, 1817, and was a son of Amos and Mary (Fisk) Hudson, also natives of that state, where the father was engaged in the manufacture of cotton goods and in merchandising in early life. In 1838 he removed to Ellensburg, Jefferson county, N. Y., where he died ten years later. He had a family of nine children, seven sons and two daughters, but only three sons are now living. The grandfather, William Hudson, was born in Massachusetts, in 1751, and as lieutenant in the colonial army took an active part in some of the most important battles of the revolutionary war.

Judge Hudson's early education, acquired in the common schools, was supplemented by a course at Union Academy, Belleville, Jefferson county, N. Y., and in 1846 he commenced the study of law in that county, being admitted to the bar at Utica in 1848. The same year he removed to Janesville in company with John R. Bennett, later the noted circuit judge of this state, and here he successfully engaged in practice for thirty-two years, acting as city attorney for some time. In 1881 he went to Fargo, as judge of the third judicial district, leaving United States jurisdiction, comprising the entire territory now comprising North Dakota. He was appointed to that position by President Garfield, and most creditably filled the office for four years. He then engaged in private practice until 1892, since which time he had lived retired. He was a distinguished lawyer and jurist, and enjoyed an excellent practice.

In October, 1847, Judge Hudson married Miss Sarah D. Campfield, a native of New York and daughter of John M. and Fanny (Harvey) Campfield, by whom he had five children, namely: Francis L., Theodore C., a clergyman in the Episcopal church; Harriet J., Sanford H., an attorney in Denison, Minn.; and Sarah C. Hudson. The wife and mother died in Janesville in 1877 and was buried in Oak Hill. Her father, John Campfield, was a prominent lawyer of Jefferson county, New York. In his political affiliations the judge was first a whig and later a republican. He assisted in organizing the latter party, and took an active part in promoting its interests. He stood high in the esteem and confidence of his fellow citizens. He was an Episcopalian and always active in the affairs of the church.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Miss Frances Ryckman returned last evening from Delavan Lake, where she has been enjoying an outing for two weeks past.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by John T. Haight of Rockdale and Augusta B. Granger of Janesville; Charles Strom of Durien and Anna Christina Anderson of Clinton; Bernhard Manthey of Janesville and Theresa Garke of Afion; Clartian P. Pierce of Madison and Irene Dopp of Janesville; John Pera and Annie Yhnol, both of Beloit.

Argument Saturday: In circuit court on Saturday will be heard the arguments in the condemnation proceedings brought by the Rock County Telephone Co. to secure a right of way for their wires in the alley in the rear of the Hayes block. The defendant's claim that the statute of 1901 required all such proceedings in the case of alleys to be brought within a certain stipulated time after its passage and content also that the property in question is neither a public nor private alley in fact, not an alley in any sense. The plaintiff disputes this latter claim and affirms that a late statute passed in 1905 removes the argument advanced regarding the expiration of the time limit.

NEWS OF THE STATE IN BRIEF.

The Rev. Father Ward, pastor of St. Thomas' Catholic church, Beloit, has returned from a three months' trip in Europe and a conference with the Pope.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parmann celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday with an elaborate special service at St. Paul's church, Algoma.

The Rev. J. E. Reilly, who has been pastor of the First Episcopal church of Madison for three years, has accepted a call to Trinity church at New Castle, Pa.

E. C. Stewart, found shot through the head at Racine, will recover. Stories are in circulation that he was shot by some other person and denied by Chief of Police Pfister.

Authority has been granted for the organization of the Laidlaw Smith State bank. W. S. Manning, E. A. Ripley, F. B. Munroe, L. Stephenson, and E. M. Warden are named as incorporators.

LATE PATENTS

R. W. Bishop, patent attorney, Washington, D. C., reports the issue of the following patents on the 29th instant to residents of Wisconsin:

FIALA TALKS OF HIS TRIP NORTH

Says Large Party and Ten Years' Time Needed to Reach.

The Pole.
New York, Aug. 31.—Anthony Fiala, the Brooklyn artist, who headed the ill-fated arctic exploration expedition of the late William Ziegler, and who was in the polar region for two years, returned on the White Star liner Oceanic. He appeared in rugged health, and did not show any traces of the hardships he endured in the frozen north, where he was supposed to have been lost.

Mr. Fiala spoke freely about his explorations. He believes that proper exploration of the far north will never be made along the lines thus far attempted.

"I believe an expedition has a poor chance of reaching the pole," he said, "without it is composed of a large party. It must be made up of men willing to remain in that region for from five to ten years. It might be necessary to send a number of ships to act as stations."

"The Peary expedition should get farther north than any other. Another way to get to the pole would be to have a drift boat of coarse steel, but it must be of great resistance and able to crush the ice. Then, again, an expedition must be equipped with wireless telegraphy."

Mr. Fiala said he would like to try again, but he did not know what young Ziegler, the heir of William Ziegler, intentions are. Until then he could not discuss plans for further expeditions. He said an expedition will need a great deal of money.

Worsted was first spun at Worsted in Norfolk, England, in the year 1340. Stockings made of this material were at first worn only by the common people.

BENNISON-TIPPETT BOYS SAVED LIVES

Of Party of Canton, Ill., People Who e Boat Capsized at Delavan Lake.

Rev. J. H. Tippett and family have been camping at Delavan Lake with Floyd Bennison, son of T. E. Bennison of this city. Last Monday morning Floyd, who is fifteen years of age, in company with Earle and Walter Tippett, whose ages are eleven and eight years, were fishing in a boat when at a distance of about a mile a boat containing a party from Canton, Ill., including Mrs. McCutcheon, an elderly lady, her brother-in-law, and a young woman capsized. None of the party could swim but all succeeded in clinging to the boat. The boys hastened to the rescue and arriving on the scene, succeeded with much difficulty in getting Mrs. McCutcheon into their boat. In the meantime the occupants of a sailboat sighted the trouble and turned their craft in that direction, so the boys put for shore with their passenger, leaving the others to be picked up by the sailboat. Mrs. McCutcheon was terribly exhausted and did not recover from the effects of her cramping for several hours. The balance of the party were not seriously affected and spent Tuesday forenoon searching for their youthful rescuers. When they had finally located the boys they presented them with a $10 bill.

THE GROWTH OF LONDON.

Not Very Different from That of Many of Our American Cities.

The suburban builder has certain fixed and resolute notions. To begin with, says the London Spectator, he greatly dislikes a tree. A well-grown tree is too large for him; so long as it is left standing it makes it impossible for him to utilize every square inch of the ground he has acquired on which to build houses. His first step, therefore, in dealing with the large pieces of ground which come into the market from time to time in a growing neighborhood, and which originally formed the park or woods of what was once a single country estate, is to cut down the trees. The older and grander trees perhaps cannot be removed merely with an ax and a spade; these he just blasts out of the ground.

Next, everything must be like everything else. All the roads must be of the same width and run in uniform directions; each house must resemble its neighbor as far as possible, except that here is a certain latitude allowed in the pattern picked out in yellow bricks on the background of red; or there may be several different styles in white wooden balconies. Each garden, again, must measure so much by so much; there must be so many feet in front of the house and so many behind; and after the garden is measured out, it has to be inclosed with a wooden fence, of which the black kind is the worst. One by one the square black boardings announcing that "this eligible residence is to be let or sold" disappear as the newly married city clerk and his bride come into occupation; scarcely a year has gone by since the first brickwork was driven into the corner of the hay field, and another hideous addition has been made to the London suburbs.

PAID BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Interesting Particulars Concerning Salaries of Senators and Representatives.

The salaries of officials of the United States government have been increased several times since its foundation, and necessarily for the relative value of money has declined. For instance, in 1789, the salaries of senators and representatives were fixed at six dollars a day and six dollars for every 20 miles of travel. In 1795 these sums were increased to seven dollars each. In 1810 the salary was made $1,500 per annum. In 1818 it was raised to eight dollars a day and eight dollars for every 20 miles of travel. In 1856 the pay was put at $3,000 and mileage as before, and in 1860 the salary was raised to $5,000 and of the speaker to $8,000, as these are now.

The salary grab act of 1873, which increased the pay to $7,500 for senators and representatives, aroused an indignant protest, not because of the increase in itself, but because the raise was made retroactive only in the case of congress, and that feature was concealed under a raise of salary of the president from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, and of the chief justice from $8,500 to $10,500, and of the vice president, cabinet officers and associate justices from $8,000 to $10,000, none of them retroactive. This salary grab act was repealed the next year, and all the salaries, except those of the president and justices reverted to the old standard.

These salaries should be now increased moderately, and the bill for that purpose introduced into the last congress ought to be passed; but no increase which would justify extravagant expenditures commensurate with those of many very rich men is suggested, nor would it be defensible.

New Food for British Sailors.

Salt beef is to be removed from the bill of fare in the British navy as soon as the present stock has been disposed of, to be replaced by a ration of preserved meat. When the new arrangement comes into force salt pork will be issued on one day out of three and preserved meat on the remaining two days.

RUSSIA LUCKY IN END OF THE WAR

Witte a great and popular figure and add to his laurels, but at court evidently the very victory that M. Witte has achieved makes it all the more bitterly resented.

Witte Asks Forgiveness.
The following is the text of M. Witte's cablegram to Emperor Nicholas announcing peace:

"I have the honor to report to your majesty that Japan has agreed to your demands concerning the conditions of peace and that consequently peace will be established, thanks to your wise and firm decision and in strict conformity with the instructions of your majesty. Russia will remain in the far East the great power which she hitherto has been and will be forever. We have applied to the execution of your orders all our intelligence and our Russian hearts. We beg your majesty mercifully to forgive that we have been unable to do more."

In view of the forthcoming electoral campaign the police have drawn up regulations concerning meetings. The elections in Poland will be held simultaneously with those in the rest of the country, enabling Poland to be represented at the first session of the national assembly.

Congratulate the President.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Aug. 31.—Crowned heads of the world unite with distinguished statesmen of America and Europe in according the bringing about of peace between Russia and Japan to President Roosevelt. Telegrams of congratulations have poured in upon the president in a great flood. They came from persons of high degree and of low, and from all quarters of the civilized world.

Cordial messages were received also from senators and representatives in Congress congratulating the President on his triumph for peace.

Ships that Russia Recovers.

New York, Aug. 31.—The interned war ships to which Japan has waived her claim and which will be returned to Russia are: Battleship Czarevitch, at Tsingtau; cruiser Askold, gunboat Mandjur and torpedo-boat destroyer Grozovoi, at Shanghai; cruiser Diana, at Saigon; cruisers Aurora, Oleg and Jemchug, at Manila; cruiser Lena, at Mare Island, San Francisco bay.

Rojevsky Recovering.

Tokio, Aug. 31.—Rear Admiral Rojevsky has so far recovered from the effects of the wounds received at the battle of the Sea of Japan that he will be brought to Kolo early in September.

Roosevelt to the Mikado.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Aug. 31.—In a letter to Baron Komura, the president extends his congratulations upon the wisdom and magnanimity manifested by Japan in the negotiations.

THE SENTIMENT OF EUROPE

Predicts Revolution in Russia.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The Vorwarts, owned by the Socialist party and in close relations with the revolutionists in Russia, says: "Russia has lost her supremacy in East Asia. This catastrophe will work a mighty effect on Russia's internal situation. What an effect on the feeling of the people will not the return of hundreds of thousands of defeated soldiers have. Hunger and the financial ruin of the country, in spite of peace, supply new firebrands to the revolution."

No Joy for St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—The peace news was received here without manifestation of joy. Expressions of relief are heard that there will be no further bloodshed, but the "glorious peace" is a disappointment to many. The suddenness with which the Russian ultimatum makes the people believe that the cessation of the island of Sakhalin would have been premature, while a large element of the people seems of the opinion that another trial at arms with its chances of victory would have been preferable to the present peace.

Hardly Understands Agreement.

London, Aug. 31.—News of the conclusion of peace at Portsmouth was received with the greatest satisfaction and admiration for Japan's "sacrifices in the cause of peace." Both newspapers and people were so astounded over the outcome of the conference that they feel that there is something in the agreement which has not been published, and that if this is not the case the new Anglo-Japanese treaty has affected the result in some way.

Germany Welcomes Peace.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—In acknowledgment of the cable dispatch containing the announcement of peace and an outline of the terms of the agreement, Chancellor Von Bismarck says: "In their reception of this fortunate result the German advocates of peace are in full agreement with the Americans."

Happiest News of Life. Says the Pope.

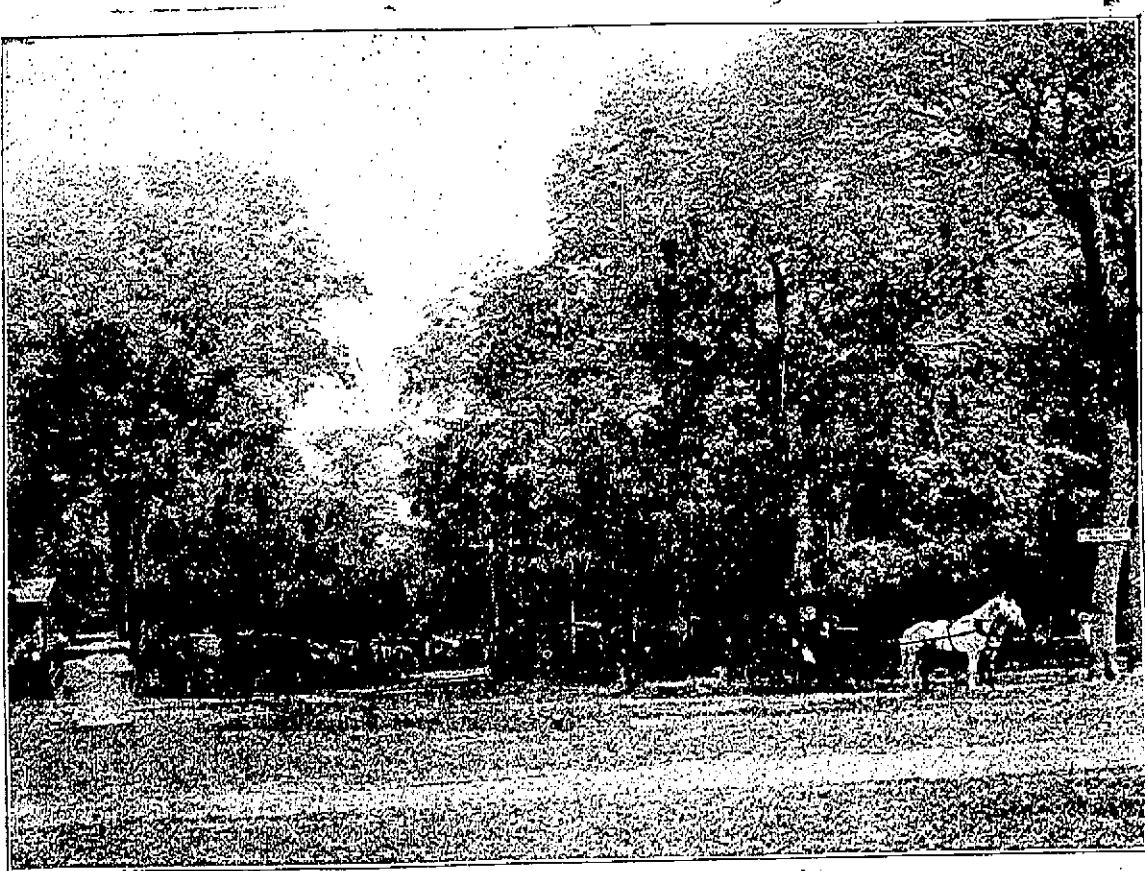

Rome, Aug. 31.—The pope was informed of the conclusion of peace in the far East as soon as the news reached Rome. "This is the happiest news of my life," the pontiff telegraphed later to Emperor Nicholas his congratulations to him and to the whole world.

Victory for Both Sides.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—"A great diplomatic victory for M. Witte, but a great moral victory for Japan," is the verdict of Prince Oukhtomsky in his editorial in the Viedmosti.

Agent of Big Packer Fined.

New Orleans, Aug. 31.—W. J. Fitzgibbons, manager of the Nelson Morris Packing company's local branch, was fined $50 or sixty days in the parish prison for selling decayed meat.

Probably Last Engagement of War Results in Defeat of Japan.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Litzhiapudke contains the details of what probably will be the last engagement of the war. This encounter took place on Aug. 28, and resulted in an advance to the Russians, who took 130 prisoners. A number of Japanese were killed. The Russian losses were eight killed. The remnant of the Japanese retired bearing their wounded.

Tokio, Aug. 31.—Army headquarters have made the following announcement:

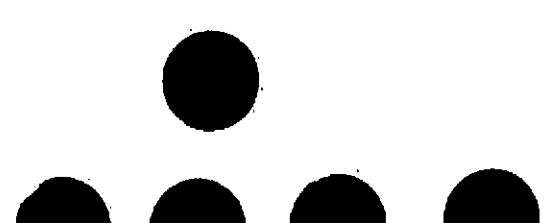

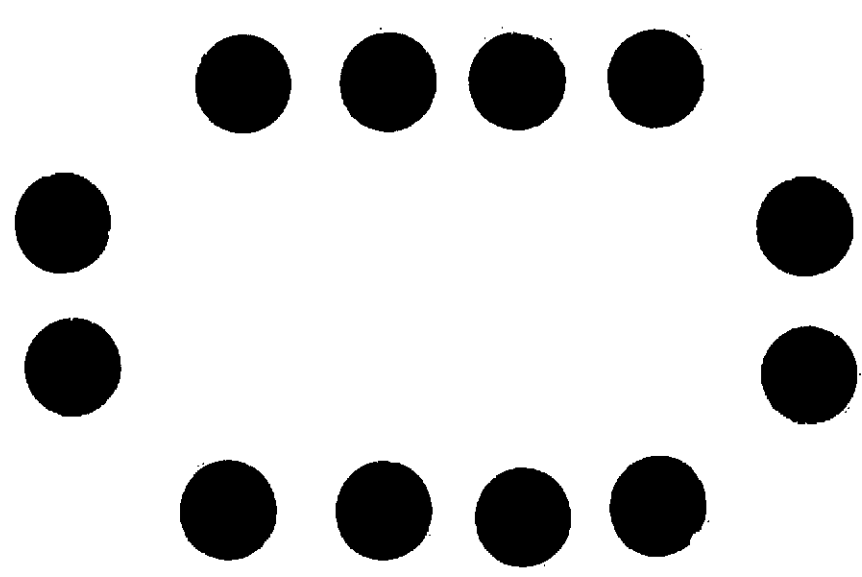

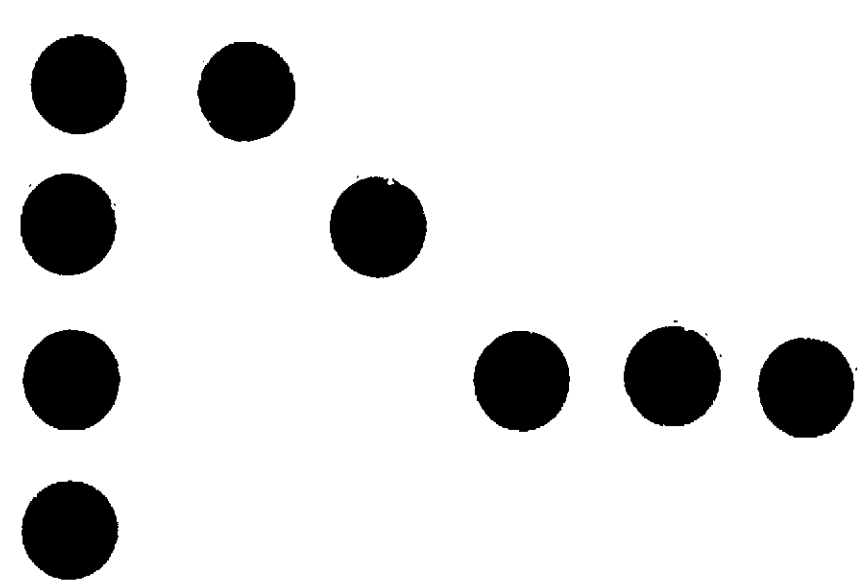

In the direction of Hsingching on the morning of Aug. 27 our forces attacked and defeated the enemy's mounted infantry, several hundred strong, with four guns, near Yutlung-su, thirty miles northeast of Hsingching.
